MARINES CALLED, LEAVE CAPITOL; MARCH GOES ON

Order to Quit Plaza Countermanded After Stir.

GROUP OUSTED IN NORTHWEST

Reds Plan for Parade Today in Spite of B. E. F. Warning.

Someone on Capitol Hill became frightened last night at the dogged picketing of the Capitol by bonus-seeking veterans and a rapid series of emergency orders, including the call of 60 United States Marines to the Capitol, were issued, only to be countermanded.

The climax of the series of orders was the dictum of Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford, "As long as I have been given charge I will take no more orders from the Capitol Police Board and will take instructions only from Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner."

Among the orders issued after the arrival and rapid departure of the heavily armed marines was one for the clearance of the Capitol Grounds given to Gen. Glassford by a "competent authority," believed to be the Vice President.

This, too, was rescinded by Vice President Curtis, at the intercession of Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, who is understood to have called the White House to have the order countermanded.

Veterans Continue March.

Though excitement reigned in the Capitol as a hurried conference was held between Capitol and police authorities, all was tranquil outside.

The veterans, 1,200 of them, continued their single file march up and down the east end of the plaza while crowds looked on.

The ranks dwindled to a few hundred after midnight while many were ordered to sleep and then to relieve the pickets.

What caused the excitement was a pamphlet issued by the radical wing of the bonus army, threatening in its nature, which said: "Congress must not adjourn."

Senate Sergeant at Arms Barry, House Sergeant at Arms Romney, Capitol Architect David Lynn, and several military intelligence officers held an immediate conference and Gen. Glassford was invited to attend to discuss measures to aid the police with military units.

Says Police Are Adequate.

Gen. Glassford advised them to throw "the pamphlet in the waste-basket," that there was no danger. He advised against the division of responsibility between the police and military units. He also made it clear that the police were adequate.

After he left the conference the request for the Marines to aid police was made by Vice President Cur-

Glassford Has Curtis' Marine Order Revoked

The order for Marines to stand guard at the Capitol, issued by Vice President Curtis, was rescinded through Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford.

Asked why the two companies of Marines appeared at the Capitol at 6 o'clock last night and then as suddenly disappeared, Gen. Glassford said, "Ask the Marines."

Vice President Curtis declined to comment.

Rear Admiral, Henry V. Butler, commandant of the navy yard, said: "Vice President Curtis asked that the Marines be sent to the Capitol. When they arrived Gen. Glassford said they were not needed and sent them back."

Gen. Glassford later said: "I was at the office of Chief of Staff MacArthur when the news came that the Marines had arrived. I had the order rescinded."

INQUIRIES TO TRAIL IN WAKE OF HOUSES

Score or More of Problems to Be Investigated; Cover Wide Range.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A score or more of Senate and House investigations will be in order when the gavel falls for the end of the first session of the Seventy-second Congress.

They range all the way from an inquiry into District of Columbia rents to a study of American trade in China. Some of them may produce spectacular headlines for the newspapers. There are others, however, which seem likely to produce nothing more than nice cool junkets this summer—assuming that politicians still have the nerve to go on junkets.

Foremost among the investigations is the one just ordered by the Senate to determine what the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is doing with the millions of dollars entrusted to it.

The special committee appointed to conduct this investigation is headed by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, whose hobby it is to bedevil the Treasury.

Mr. Couzens is particularly anxious to have some light thrown on the $80,000,000 credit which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is reported to have established for the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago, headed by Charles G. Dawes, who until recently headed the big finance corporation.

Chairman Couzens yesterday called on Eugene Meyer, jr., to provide information concerning every loan so

Jury Chief in Convict's Torture Death Menaced

Jacksonville, Fla., July 14 (A.P.).—Al F. Gorman, foreman of the Duval County grand jury which recently indicted two prison camp officers for the "sweat box" death of Arthur Mallefert, young New Jersey convict, received a threat of death through the mails today.

The crudely lettered note told Gorman: "There are ways of dealing with people who don't mind their own business." It warned if he persisted in the investigation of prison camp conditions he would "go out, but not by the chain."

HOOVER FAVORS FEDERAL 5-DAY WEEK PRINCIPLE

However, He Will Issue No Order for Its Hard Enforcement.

WORKERS GET FIRST TASTE OF CUT TODAY

President Believes Shorter Shifts to Be Factor in Ending Depression.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

President Hoover has approved the five-day week principle in Government recommended by his Council on Personnel Administration, it was announced last night at the White House.

He will issue no order for its hard and fast application throughout the Government service, however. Administration of the plan will be left to the heads of departments, who will seek to avoid unnecessary hardships on personnel.

An order for execution of the indeterminate payless furloughs, authorized under the economy act in addition to the legislative one-month furlough, is being prepared at the White House for promulgation today or tomorrow.

Necessity for Variations.

Also in line with personnel council recommendations, it will direct furloughing of workers wherever necessary to keep within appropriations, in lieu of outright dismissals. The higher salaried employes will be laid off first, where departmental funds are insufficient.

Recommendations approved recognize that adaptation of the five-day week principle must differ with varied Government activities, so as not to impair their services or increase their cost.

"The necessity for such variations is evident from a consideration of those departments and establishments which are charged with the responsibility of maintaining a continuous service for the direct convenience of the public, such as the postal service, or an interrupted service of a protective, law enforcement or institutional character," the council advised President Hoover.

Discretion to Be Used.

"There is also the further consideration of not imposing unnecessary hardship upon Government personnel, in view of the withdrawal this fiscal year of the annual leave privilege.

"In view of these conditions, it is not believed practicable to lay down any hard and fast rule regarding the legislative furlough, but rather that this should be left to the discretion of the heads of the departments and establishments, who should keep in mind the desirability of advancing the interests of a five-day week wherever it is practicable to do so."

The President is approving the council's recommendations with the conviction that the Federal Govern-

War Supply Measure Is Signed by President

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover late yesterday signed the $390,000,000 War Department appropriation bill, the last of the big money measures to be enacted for running the Government.

The measure was finally enacted by Congress after the House abandoned its demand that 2,000 officers be dismissed for economy.

MacDonald to Meet De Valera in London

Leaders Hunt Compromise as Anglo-Irish Tariff War Menace Grows; Dail Strikes Back at Duties; Importers Race Ships.

London (Friday), July 15 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain has offered to meet President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Free State in London to discuss differences between the two countries. It was understood that Mr. De Valera had accepted the invitation and would come to London today.

The invitation resulted from a conconference at No. 10 Downing street last night, when the prime minister, the lord chancellor and the attorney general discussed the situation with William Norton, chairman of the Free State Labor party, and English Labor leaders.

Norton said after the conference that he had explained the "terms of a suggested compromise" with MacDonald, but he declined to disclose its details to the press. He added that he had telephoned the invitation to President De Valera, who would arrive in London at 6 p. m. today.

It was assumed that the compromise was a plan which Mr. Norton said at Holyhead, Wales, while on the way to London, he had been authorized to bring here and which was acceptable to the Free State. He said at Holyhead that he thought the plan would be acceptable to the British.

Dublin, July 14 (A.P.).—The Irish Free State went ahead with its plans for a tariff war with Great Britain today.

The Dail Eireann adopted on first reading, by a vote of 66 to 51, the president's bill to impose special duties on British goods in reprisal for a retaliatory British tariff on Free State products, intended to recoup losses to the British treasury from the default of Irish land annuities.

Deputy Curran, one of the seven Labor members in the Dail who provide the Republicans with their majority, indicated that Labor would support the Free State bill. It does not impose tariffs, but following the British method gives the government power to levy such duties as it considers desirable.

Liverpool, England, July 14 (A.P.). Anticipating the new British tariff on Irish imports which becomes effective tomorrow, numerous ships laden with Irish goods were racing across the Irish Sea to England today.

DRY UNIT OPPOSES BACKING OF HOOVER

Policy Committee Will Make Recommendations to Board of Strategy.

(United Press.)

Recommendations against indorsement of President Hoover will be made to the National Prohibition Board of Strategy by its policy committee, it was decided after a protracted meeting of the committee last night to determine policy for the coming campaign.

The committee drafted a report demanding retention of the eighteenth amendment, urging support of dry candidates for Congress and State Legislatures and setting forth the records of President Hoover and his Democratic opponent, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for guidance of the prohibition organizations.

(Associated Press.)

The national prohibition board of strategy late yesterday appointed a committee of seven to draft a statement of policy for the guidance of its member organizations through the coming political campaigns.

The report is to be presented this morning. Those charged with drafting it are Dr. Ernest Cherrington, chairman of the board; Dr. Edwin Dinwiddie, executive secretary; Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; Dr. A. J. Barton, of the Southern Baptist Convention; Raymond Robins, of the allied forces for prohibition; Mrs. Ella Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and Walter C. Clippinger, president of Otterbein College.

The outstanding question, whether to throw the support of their groups to President Hoover, whose Republican party platform calls for submission of an amendment to replace the eighteenth amendment, or whether to stay out of the presidential contest.

The dry leaders gathered composed the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, its meeting being a preliminary to assembly of its parent organ-

British Cabinet Meets On Ship Going to Canada

S. S. Empress of Britain, at Sea, July 14 (A.P.).—Seven British cabinet ministers, clad in flannel suits, met today on this ship for what was virtually a cabinet sitting at sea, the first ever held on the Atlantic waters.

Technically it was a meeting of the British delegates to the imperial economic conference at Ottawa. Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and chief lieutenant of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, presided. The business was mainly the question of arrangements for the conference.

Brazilian Planes Bomb Rebels' Military Train

Rio de Janeiro, July 14 (U.P.).—Federal airplanes bombed a rebel military train near the important railroad junction of Cruzeiro, unconfirmed reports said today. Simultaneously it was officially announced that the vanguard of loyal forces from Goyaz had penetrated rebel territory in Sao Paulo State.

Forty thousand troops are moving toward the rebel state, the general headquarters of the federal army announced.

OHIO G. O. P. FACTION TO DEMAND REPEAL

Hurley and Fess Criticize Roosevelt at Platform Parley in Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14 (A.P.).—In an atmosphere made suddenly tense by only partially concealed sentiment for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the Republican party in Ohio tonight sounded the first echoes of the forthcoming national presidential campaign.

Secretary of War Hurley, firing an administration salvo at Franklin D. Roosevelt's acceptance address, derided the New Yorker's pledge of "a new deal for the American people." He spoke before the State Republican platform convention, the first State meeting since the Chicago national convention.

Hurley departed from his prepared speech to denounce Speaker Garner, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, and other members of the House majority party, who he said had attempted to put the Government into business against private enterprise.

The prohibition question appeared to have been tacitly left out of the addresses, but Cincinnati, Akron and Youngstown delegations went dripping wet in caucus and were prepared to carry a resolution fight to the floor in an effort to declare the convention in favor of repeal of both national and State liquar laws.

Another big city delegation, that

Senate Unit Delays Action on Garsaud

Committee Agrees to Vote at Its First Meeting in December.

(Associated Press.)

Action on the nomination of Marcel Garsaud, of New Orleans, for reappointment to the Power Commission was delayed yesterday by the Senate interstate commerce committee until next December.

Chairman Couzens (Republican), Michigan, announced the committee had agreed in executive session that a vote would be had at the first meeting next December, without further debate or hearings. He explained the delay was because a majority of the members had not had time to read the voluminous record in the case. Garsaud is being fought vigorously by Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana.

His present term expired June 22. He may be given a recess appointment by the President, however, to hold him in office until next December, but would not be entitled to draw pay until confirmed.

Body of Child, Hunted For Nearly Week, Found

Minneapolis, July 14 (A.P.).—The body of 20-month-old Leslie Delano, for whom neighbors and 125 National Guardsmen had hunted nearly a week, was found late today in an underground sewage catch basin near his home in suburban Columbia Heights.

How the boy met death remained undetermined. Police investigated the possibility of murder. They did not believe he fell into the chamber, although it had a removable top ten inches square. The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano, disappeared Friday.

NEW AID BILL'S VETO LOOMS AS 2 HOUSES CLASH

Demand for Publicity on Reconstruction Loans Issue in Dispute.

SENATE CONFEREES MAY RELENT TODAY

Early Adjournment Hangs in Balance; All of Other Differences Settled.

(Associated Press.)

The modified unemployment relief bill was jeopardized yesterday by a new conflict between the two branches of Congress which threatened to prolong the session.

The $2,122,000,000 bill became ensnarled in a dispute between the House and Senate out of which some of the congressional leaders were fearful a measure would emerge that President Hoover might veto, preventing Congress from adjourning this week.

The House by a vote of 172 to 150 insisted upon its provision in the bill requiring that publicity be given to all future loans by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Senate conferees, reported to have been informed that this provision was not acceptable to the President, insisted upon its elimination, and the Senate upheld their stand.

Senate May Yield to House.

Despite frank references in the senate to the possibility of a veto, there were indications last night that the Senate representatives would yield to the House when the conferences are resumed today.

Weary leaders were hopeful, in the absence of definite word from Mr. Hoover, that he would not veto the bill even if it went to him with the publicity clause, thus permitting adjournment tomorrow.

The Senate sent the bill back to conference last night with instructions to insist upon elimination of the publicity clause on the motion

Man Shot and 2 Banks Robbed in 20 Minutes

Little Rock, Ark., July 14 (A.P.).—A bank robber suspect was killed and two banks were robbed within 20 minutes in Arkansas today. Officers shot and killed Ky Coatney north of Van Buren when he resisted arrest as a suspect in the robbery of a Prairie Grove bank last April 1.

Two men held up the First National Bank of Paris and robbed it of about $8,100. The robbers locked Dolph Guthrie, clerk, and Lewis Sadler, cashier, in the vault and escaped. At Beebe two men robbed the Citizens Bank of $3,100 and escaped after forcing Miss Fannie Raney, cashier, into the vault.

F.L. Smith in Comeback; Was Rejected, in Senate

Chicago, July 14 (U.P.).—Frank L. Smith, millionaire, who twice was named United States senator without ever being one, made a political "comeback" today when he defeated Gov. Louis L. Emmerson for the post of Republican national committeeman.

He won by a vote of 849,000 to 367,605 for Emmerson and 183,761 for Roy O. West. The victory marked Smith's return to active politics after a lapse of several years, when he was twice refused a seat in the U. S. Senate.

U. S. DEBT POLICY TO IGNORE PACT, HOOVER DECLARES

Text of Hoover Letter Upon Debt Agreement

The text of President Hoover's letter to Senator Borah regarding the European debts agreement follows:

My dear Mr. Senator:

I have your inquiry this morning, through Secretary Stimson, as to the effect on th United States of recent agreements in Europe.

Our people are, of course, gratified at the settlement of the strictly European problem of reparations or any of the other political or economic questions that have impeded European recovery. Such action, together with the real progress in disarmament, will contribute greatly to world stability.

I wish to make it absolutely clear, however, that the United States has not been consulted regarding any of the agreements reported by the press to have been concluded recently at Lausanne and that of course it is not a party to nor in any way committed to any such agreements.

While I do not assume it to be the purpose of any of these agreements to effect combined action of our debtors, if it shall be so interpreted, then I do not propose that the American people shall be pressed into any line of action or that our policies shall be in any way influenced by such a combination either open or implied.

Not to Be Coerced by United Action, Europe Told.

BORAH CONFERS WITH STIMSON

President's Statement Clarifies and Routs Skepticism.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover served formal notice on Europe yesterday that the United States will not be coerced or persuaded by any united action into accepting the Lausanne agreements. At the same time the President solemnly reaffirmed the statements of Secretary Stimson that this Government had no part in the negotiation of the Lausanne agreements and again announced it would not be bound by any such foreign combination.

This clarifying bolt in the beclouded atmosphere of foreign debts and German reparations came from the White House in the form of a letter to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The senator from Idaho of late has been in the novel role of administration spokesman before the upper house. In the course of the debate on the war debts this week in the Senate, Senator Borah has often risen to support the President and the foreign policy of the administration in the light of discussions that have been occasioned by the recent admissions of British and French statesmen.

Calls on Secretary Stimson.

Yesterday morning the senator called on Secretary Stimson and confided to him the temper of the Senate which had developed over the recent disclosures in the House of Commons and in the Chamber of Deputies. Conflicting interpretations of the recent Lausanne agreements insofar as they concerned American debt interests had aroused considerable anxiety in the Congress for the integrity of foreign debts payments due the United States in December.

The President's letter to the senator made known his views on the entire debt question following the most recent developments at Lausanne.

The language of the President was clear and specific. He wrote:

"I wish to make it absolutely clear, however, that the United States has not been consulted regarding any of the agreements reported by the press to have been concluded recently at Lausanne and that, of course, it is not a party to, nor in any way committed to any such agreements."

Decision Again Affirmed.

The decision of the President to keep the debt negotiations definitely within the bounds fixed by him in the State Department's previous memorandum to American foreign debtors was again cogently affirmed in this manner:

"While I do not assume it to be the purpose of any of these agreements to effect combined action of our debtors, if it shall be so inter-

Italy for Debt Accord, But Is Against Pressure

Rome, July 14 (A.P.).—Italy squarely rejects any idea of exerting pressure on the United States to reduce war debts through the agency of the Franco-British accord, the foreign office emphasized today in announcing that the government had adhered to the agreement.

The accord has been accepted, it was explained, only as an additional method of collaborating with the other powers on the problems facing Europe.

BRITISH DENY MOVE TO NULLIFY DEBTS

Italy and Belgium Accept Anglo-Franco Accord and Will Adhere to It.

London, July 14 (A.P.).—The British government made a double attempt today to wipe out any impression in the United States that a concerted European move was being made to nullify the war debts owed to Washington.

The government issued two official statements. One denied the new Anglo-French accord bound Britain not to negotiate an individual debt settlement with the United States.

The other reiterated and strengthened the recent denial that American representatives were consulted before the European powers wrote the Lausanne Treaty which greatly scaled down the German reparations with which they meet a large part of their debts to the United States.

During the day the Italian and Belgian charge d'affaires notified the foreign office their governments agreed with the ideas expressed in the Anglo-French pact and intended to adhere to it. It was understood Germany, also invited to participate, was studying the agreement.

Official quarters appeared considerably perturbed by conflicting statements and misunderstandings in regard to the accord, as well as by the tone of comment in the press and in the House of Commons.

The effect of the first of the day's

2 Bank Robber Suspects Wounded in Gun Battle

Columbia, Ky., July 14 (A.P.).—Two men suspected of the robbery of the Bank of Creelsboro, in Russell County, were wounded in a gun battle with officers near here tonight.

About $3,500, the amount taken from the bank at noon today, was found in their possession.

Norris Refuses to Consider Nomination of Miss McCall

District Code Cited as Bar to Removal of Juvenile Judge Until Successor Is "Appointed and Confirmed;" Recess Action Fought.

Chairman George W. Norris, of the Senate judiciary committee, yesterday refused to consider at this session Miss M. Pearl McCall's nomination to succeed Miss Kathryn Sellers as judge of the Juvenile Court.

At the same time, Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, who is fighting to continue Judge Sellers in office, moved to block recess appointment of Miss McCall.

He cited a provision in the District code prescribing procedure in appointing District Juvenile Court judges. He holds this section bars removal of a judge from office until her successor has been "appointed and confirmed."

Senator Norris said his refusal to take action on the McCall nomination is not based on any personal opposition.

"It is obviously too late in the session to hold hearings on her appointment," he said. "And hearings will have to be held, because there have been several objections within the judiciary committee."

He shared Senator King's belief that a recess appointment can not be made.

Senator King, a personal friend of Judge Sellers, reiterated yesterday that "something is back" of the move to oust Miss Sellers in favor of Miss McCall.

He declared injuries she suffered in an accident several weeks ago which have confined her to her home ever since are not sufficiently serious to prevent her continued service.

Miss Sellers has been Juvenile Court judge for two six-year terms. Miss McCall, one of the assistant United States attorneys for the District, was on vacation in Massachusetts yesterday. Her nomination was sent to the Senate Wednesday.

Aid Committee Fundless, Staff Works Without Pay

Collect Telegrams to Gifford Group Turned Back Because Congress Failed to Provide Money; Water Coolers Removed; to "Carry On."

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

A dollar has to cover a lot of ground these days in the headquarters of the Gifford committee on unemployment relief but a handful of loyal workers, serving without pay or the promise of pay, are making heroic efforts to maintain the great American tradition of "business as usual" during hard times.

Since the old appropriation expired with the end of the fiscal year on June 30, there has been no authority to engage in even the simple operation of sending a telegram, or making a long distance telephone call, so the essential work of the two-year-old national relief organization has been managed somehow for two weeks without the benefit of checks, drafts, vouchers, cash and similar hindrances to the genuinely simple life.

The typewriters are silent, for all classified Civil Service stenographers have been reassigned to the departments from which they were borrowed last year, but local telephone calls still are managed through a free hookup with the War Department switch board. Collect telegrams received at the committee's headquarters in the Walker-Johnson Building, 1730 New York avenue northwest, must be turned back to the messenger. Four field agents are stranded in the various hotpoints of distress in which July 1 found them. But among those who are sticking to their labors in Washington there is a sort of an unspoken conviction, as was so long the case with the immortal Micawber, that "something will turn up." Meanwhile, franked envelopes have been

G. O. P. House Nominee Is Arrested in Fraud

Philadelphia, July 14 (A.P.).—Deputy Coroner Arthur Sellers, Republican nominee for Congress from the Fourth District, was arrested tonight at his summer home in Pitman, N. J., on charges of fraud and embezzlement in connection with his official administration of an estate.

Detectives arrested the deputy coroner tonight on charges preferred by Emma Vogel, one of the heirs to a $50,000 estate of which Sellers was the administrator. He was taken before a magistrate and released in bail for a hearing tomorrow.

Bonus Child Dead; Physician Detained

Coroner's Verdict Held Up. Conditions at Billet Cause Concern.

A 52-year-old physician was being held for investigation last night at the Third Precinct station while authorities investigated conditions at the Fourteenth and B streets southwest camp which may have led to the death yesterday in Children's Hospital of 13-month-old Helen Anstine as the result of infection following an attack of diarrhea.

The girl was one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Dene Anstine, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, bonus army participants. Helen was taken sick last Monday, treated by Dr. Alfonso Carpora Tuesday and taken to the hospital Wednesday. The physician was arrested last night after Carl Clayton, commander of the billet, asked he be investigated.

Through the Red Cross and a local undertaker, arrangements were made to send the body to Ohio. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald expressed concern at health conditions and withheld issuance of a certificate in the death.

FARM BOARD CRITICS ATTACKED BY STONE

Assert Foes Have Failed to Offer Any Constructive Thought as Remedy.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Stone of the Farm Board yesterday turned on Southern critics of his organization, asserting their old system of marketing had held 2,000,000 persons in servitude.

He attacked opposition that has appeared before Congress, contending not "one single constructive thought of any kind" had been offered.

Stone spoke at a conference with newspapermen. Asserting he had done everything possible to get increased funds from Congress after the board's appropriation had been cut in half, the chairman referred to those who were attempting to keep the appropriation down.

"They were largely representatives of men handling farm commodities under the old system and they were willing to do everything they could to destroy this act and the effectiveness of what we are trying to do under it," he said. "And take the representatives of the cotton shippers who have been here before Congress, before every committee where anything was brought up concerning this act, demanding that the act be rescinded, demanding that appropriations be done away with.

"What has their system brought the South in the last 50 years? Absolute slavery. And what have they offered here before Congress to remedy that situation? Not one single constructive thought of any kind.

"And that makes me mad when I think men are that selfish. These men represent only 700 people and there are 2,000,000 people in servitude in the South due to that system."

Asked if the present system has bettered conditions in the South, Stone said:

"No one claims the new plan is perfect. There are lots of things to be changed about it, but it is a step in the right direction for the man who grows cotton."

Senate Kills Norbeck Farm Relief Measure, 30 to 25

Bill Provided Sums Equal to Tariff for Producers of Wheat, Cotton and Hogs Sending Their Commodities Into Domestic Markets.

(Associated Press.)

Death was dealt the Norbeck farm relief bill yesterday by the Senate, which only Wednesday had passed the measure and dispatched it to the House for final action.

The measure was reconsidered by a vote of 30 to 25, on motion of Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, to permit several opponents of the plan who were absent Wednesday to vote.

That this was the end of the bill for the session was agreed upon generally. The action came even while word circulated at the Capitol that President Hoover would veto the measure if it passed.

Sponsored by Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, it was an emergency one-year measure, designed as a stop-gap to serve until Congress could enact a comprehensive farm relief plan.

Bounties Would Be Paid.

Under it wheat, cotton and hog growers would receive for their production going into domestic consumption, sums equal to the tariff or amounts set by the bill, in addition to their sales price. The bounties would be taken from processors of the products.

Constitutionality of the measure repeatedly was brought into question in both houses. After the Senate passed it Wednesday, Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic House floor leader, asked the rules committee to report the measure out immediately.

The committee delayed and today Speaker Garner told newspapermen word had been received that President Hoover looked with disfavor on the measure. He had been asked why the rules committee had not given the Senate measure legislative right of way in the House.

"It's getting so that when word is passed President Hoover is going to veto a bill that a lot of conferences are held," Garner said. "A lot of conferences are being held now, I understand. Congress appears to be taking the attitude that it is useless to waste energy in passing a bill that is going to be vetoed."

Senate Word Brings Delay.

The rules committee Wednesday considered giving the measure privileged status, but delayed when a number of senators who had been absent when it passed their branch without a roll call, notified House leaders they would move to recall the bill.

The attempt to reconsider was made yesterday, but Senator Norris, of Nebraska, Republican Independent, objected and then held the floor in a lengthy speech on the power question.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, then laid before the House rules group a request for special consideration of the one-year relief plan. As approved by the Senate it applies only to wheat, cotton and hogs, but the House measure embraces all agricultural commodities.

Terms of Measure.

Under its terms the Secretary of Agriculture would determine the percentage of the present year's production of a commodity, which will be used for domestic consumption. Certificates would be issued to farmers on their sales of wheat at 42 cents a bushel (the amount of the tariff); 5 cents a pound on cotton and 2 cents a pound on hogs, to be withdrawn from processors through sales of the processed products.

Chairman Jones, of the agriculture committee, told the rules group that if the legislation was held to be unconstitutional after going in operation the Federal Treasury might be out between $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

POWER TRUST HIT IN NORRIS SPEECH

Senator Accuses Hoover of Desire to Halt Investigation of Industry.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris, the independent Republican from Nebraska, yesterday charged President Hoover with a desire to halt the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the power industry.

He spoke before the Senate in a lengthy address on the power question, reaching a climax with the assertion that the investigation, though far from complete, already had discovered $520,000,000 of "financial water and air on which the poor people must pay for all time" in the capitalization of electric utilities.

"And yet," shouted Norris, "if President Hoover had his way all this would stop, all this work in behalf of the public."

Norris some time ago announced he will support Franklin D Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, just as in 1928 he supported Alfred E. Smith against Hoover.

Links Nutt's Name.

Norris linked Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, to power company operations, saying he was a member of a syndicate which bought companies in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado in 1912.

Nutt has now as "his principal job the reelection of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States," the senator said.

Norris swung then to the power commission and charged that J. L. Abbott, of Lynchburg, Va., an attorney for the Appalachian Electric Power Co. in the New River case, had resorted to unethical and unprofessional practices.

In this case, now pending in the United States District Court at Norfolk, Va., the company disputes the commission's claim that it has jurisdiction over the New River in Virginia, where the company wants to build an $11,000,000 project.

Abbott, Norris charged, took from the court clerk the Government's answer to the company's pleadings and kept them, refusing to let the answer's allegations be made public.

Thompson Tells of Paper.

He read to the Senate a letter from Huston Thompson, special counsel for the power commission in the case, describing removal of the paper from the files of the court and saying that at a conference of attorneys later Abbott "stepped up and drew the answer which I had filed from his pocket and handed it to me."

The power company, Norris charged, was "afraid to have the public see the allegations in Mr. Thompson's answer" as Thompson contended the company "wrote up" its investments to sell securities based on fictitious values.

Norris harked back also to his 1930 campaign in which strenuous efforts were made to defeat him for the Republican senatorial nomination, even to entry in the primary of another George W. Norris.

Flays Tactics of Lucas.

Robert Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, said Norris, used "obnoxious and disgraceful" efforts to defeat him, and he said Victor Seymour, who figured in court proceedings growing out of the case, had perjured himself before the Senate campaign investigating committee. Then, he said, Seymour, though a poor man, had for his defenders some of the best attorneys in Nebraska.

Norris said Walter Head, whom he described as a personal friend of President Hoover, gave Seymour the needed financial backing.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—John L. Abbott, attorney, said he did not care to make any comment after hearing an abstract of the address in the Senate today in which Senator Norris (Republican) of Nebraska, charged "unethical" tactics had been employed by Abbott in fighting the Government's claim to jurisdiction over a proposed project of the Appalachian Electric Power Co.

Buy Stamps Before Cost Goes Up, Woman's Idea

Johnstown, N. Y., July 14 (A.P.). This is a story of thrift as practiced by a woman who counts the cost of her correspondence.

At the window of the postoffice here she appeared just before the recent advent of 3-cent postage for letter mail.

SMITH MAY STUMP FOR STATE TICKET

Has Active Interest in Seeing Lieutenant Governor Nominated and Elected.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—"Al" Smith is likely to jump into his old role of campaign spellbinder this fall, but on behalf of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate rather than the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

Since his last public pronouncement—"I shall support the Democratic party"—there has been much speculation about what part, if any, he will take in the coming ballot drive.

His omission of the names of Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner from his statement of party loyalty led to the supposition he would be more a spectator than an actor in the next act of the 1932 political drama.

But one of the "Happy Warrior's" close associates said today Smith has an active interest in seeing Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman nominated for the post he himself held for four terms, and then relinquished to Roosevelt.

May Campaign Actively.

If Lehman is nominated, it was further stated, Democracy's 1928 standard bearer very possibly might do some active campaigning for him.

While speculation over Smith's political plans was going on, another big Republican gun boomed. Secretary Hurley opened the Hoover-Curtis campaign in Ohio with a speech charging the Democratic party lacks a program.

Earlier in the week Secretary Mills had called Roosevelt a man without a plan to meet the economic situation.

Smith's contemplated move to campaign for Lehman would not preclude him from taking an aggressive part in the presidential fight. It was pointed out, however, that by working for Lehman alone, he would be living up to his pledge to support the party—even to the extent of taking the stump for it—but would not be openly working for the man he fought to the last ditch at Chicago.

Roosevelt's Choice, Too.

Smith's support of Lehman for both nomination and election, however, would line him up on the same side of the fence with Roosevelt again, and might lead to an eventual recementing of the friendship they maintained for many years.

The lieutenant governor is generally understood to be Roosevelt's own choice for the gubernatorial seat.

Lehman will be the guest of honor at a highway dedication on Long Island Saturday and Smith is planning to attend, too. They may discuss the situation when they meet on that occasion.

George C. Hills, who had charge of the Roosevelt preconvention campaign in Florida, called at the nominee's headquarters and predicted a sweeping Roosevelt victory in November.

DEMOCRATS FOLLOW G. O. P., HURLEY SAYS

Derides "New Deal" Pledge of Roosevelt in Ohio Campaign Start.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14 (A.P.).—Deriding Franklin D. Roosevelt's pledge of "a new deal for the American people," Secretary Hurley opened the presidential campaign in Ohio tonight with an address to the Republican State convention in which he extolled President Hoover as the champion "of American principles and ideals."

In a quick follow-up of this week's Boston speech by his fellow Cabinet member, Secretary Mills, the head of the War Department said the Democratic party lacks a program.

"It lives only by the criticism it is able to direct against the leadership and constructive program of the Republican party," he said. "In many essentials it always follows Republican leadership."

"Just what is this new deal?" he asked of the promise made by Roosevelt in his acceptance of the Democratic nomination.

"Dealing With Old Deck."

Subsequently Hurley ventured:

"The governor may be honestly trying to give us a new deal, but he is certainly dealing from an old deck—the same old deck from which William Jennings Bryan gave the American people so many 'new deals' and from which he dealt himself so many Democratic nominations for President—the same old deck that contains all the radical phrases—all the language of discontent—all the futile attempts to capitalize disorder and arouse class prejudices for political purposes. Beware governor, Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Hearst and Speaker Garner may have stacked the deck on you.

"Let us contrast the vague references of Franklin D. Roosevelt to a new deal with the accomplishments of President Hoover.

"From the very beginning of the depression, the President of the United States continuously has fought for the maintenance of the American standard of living.

Insisted on Tariffs.

"He insisted upon proper tariffs to meet the flood of cheap goods from demoralized Europe. He upheld the rate of wages.

"He inaugurated a program of Federal construction to stimulate industry and increase employment. He sponsored a building program by State and local governments and private industry.

"He stopped immigration by executive order.

"He conciliated capital and labor. He prevented strikes and acrimony between employer and employe that have been the universal accomplishment of all former panics and depressions. He defeated the dole. He mobilized the public opinion to take care of distress. He directed the Farm Board to take and hold surplus until better markets could be obtained. He bolstered up confidence in the financial world and stopped the onrush of bank failures by organizing a private bank pool of $500,000,000.

"He extended a moratorium—which has nothing to do with the cancellation of debts, and prevented the spread of financial panic to the United States.

Absence of Disorders.

"The three major policies of the President stand vindicated," he said.

"We have prevented disorders, riots and social upheavals. We have cared for the needy

"We are in a depression, but we have averted panic and catastrophe. While twenty revolutions have shaken the foundations of other nations, while nation after nation has been driven from its gold standard, the United States, under the administration of Herbert Hoover, is tranquil, solvent and confident.

"The Democrats had no program. Save the vague references to a new deal, the Democratic candidate has suggested no program. The Hoover nonpartisan reconstruction program is still the only complete logical program offered by any one in or out of public life to break this depression."

HOOVER INDORSES PRINCIPLE OF FEDERAL FIVE-DAY WEEK

ment should take the lead among large-scale organizations in favoring a five-day work-week adapted in practical fashion to the needs of the service.

He believes that establishment of shorter working hours generally in industry would go far toward relieving the effects of the present depression, particularly in stabilizing employment. He shares the council's belief that it would constitute a force opposing future similar disturbances.

Issuance of an Executive order for administering the second or so-called "administrative furlough" may come this afternoon, concurrently with the first pay-day under the new regime. Federal employes today will find deducted from their pay envelopes 1¼ days' salary, 8 1-3 per cent of what they formerly received.

Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, and chairman of the Council on Personnel Administration, drafted sample regulations for the guidance of the President in framing his order for administering indeterminate furloughs.

As given out at the White House yesterday, these recommendations read as follows:

"Where an appropriation for a given activity, after deducting the amount to be impounded for compulsory furlough, is insufficient to an extent which ordinarily would require the dismissal of employes, the head of the department or establishment concerned will, in lieu of such dismissals, furlough employes, without pay, for such periods as are necessary to avoid a deficit in the appropriation and without discharging employes who are qualified to perform the class of work which is to be continued.

"The higher salaried employes will be furloughed first whenever possible without injury to the service. Subject to this condition, the total period of furlough under the provisions of this section will, so far as practicable and with due regard to the efficiency of the service, be uniformly distributed among the employes. This, however, will not be construed as requiring the transfer of employes from one post to another for the sole purpose of shortening the period of furlough of such employes."

Administrative furloughs would be restricted to the utmost degree possible and invoked only where absolutely necessary to keep within appropriations under the plan.

Consideration would first be given to all possible means of avoiding furloughs, such as transfer of qualified employes from one appropriation roll to another, transfers of appropriations within a department and administrative economies in other items.

Senator Shipstead (Republican), Minnesota, yesterday attempted to get Senate action on his resolution exempting Government Printing Office workers from economy act provisions denying all annual leave. These employes have earned leave accrued from 1932, and Senator Shipstead seeks to pay them in cash already impounded, if leave may not be given.

Action on his motion was blocked by Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones, who insisted the resolution go through the regular committee channels. Senator Shipstead cited closing of the North Capitol Savings Bank, where most of the employes bank their savings, in an effort to facilitate committee action.

NEW AID MEASURE PERILED BY CLASH

of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, who said he was trying to "avoid a veto."

Chided by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, for yielding to the President, Robinson said he wanted to eliminate all controversies possible in order to pass the bill.

Hope to Avoid Veto.

"We ought not to get into a deadlock," he said.

Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, Robinson's critic, took the same view and urged the Senate not to risk a veto.

Connally, however, contended Congress should do what it thought best and let the President take the responsibility of vetoing the bill if he wanted to. Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, agreed.

Republicans took no part in the discussion, which followed a day's whirl of developments on the bill.

Other controversies between the two houses were completely ironed out. The Glass provision for loans to individuals through the twelve Federal Reserve Banks was adopted.

Other Actions Taken.

Reorganization of the Reconstruction Corporation, by elimination from the board of two ex officio members was approved.

The conferees adopted the Senate provision to prevent loans to financial institutions, officers of which have been on the board within a year.

Provisions of the House bill authorizing a $7,000,000 construction program at military air fields was approved, and the Senate terms for Government capitalization of regional agricultural credit corporations were adopted.

Conferees Deadlocked On Currency Expansion

(Associated Press.)

Congressional conferees reached an agreement last night on the administration-sponsored home loan discount bank bill, but were deadlocked on the currency expansion amendment attached to it.

House conferees attempted to add to the Glass billion-dollar currency expansion rider, the Goldsborough dollar stabilization bill which passed the House several months ago. The Senate refused to agree.

The partisan conference report will be presented to the House today and the House conference committee will ask for indorsement of its stand.

The conferees agreed upon the terms of the House home loan discount bill, last of the administration's economic relief program.

The House provision for eight to twelve banks with capitalization of at least $5,000,000 each was approved. Commercial banks were excluded from the provisions of the bill.

The measure is designed to free credit for the home building by setting up a system of parent banks for mortgage institutions similar to the Federal Reserve system for commercial banks.

Bay State Committee To Support Roosevelt

Boston, July 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who placed the name of Alfred E. Smith before the Democratic national convention, today continued silence on his attitude toward the party's presidential nominee, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, but he warned against any attempts to interpret his stand.

Shortly after Ely had spoken, the State Democratic committee, a majority of whose membership has been pro-Smith, adopted a resolution pledging its "devoted and loyal support" to the "candidates of the United Democracy of the Nation, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner."

Hoover Is Warned Tax Perils Commodity Marts

Chicago, July 14 (A.P.).—Warning that a breakdown of commodity market machinery might result during the heavy crop period was sent to President Hoover and congressional leaders today by the principal American commodity exchanges.

The message urged adoption of the Purnell bill which would reduce the 400 per cent increase tax on commodity future sales. This reduction would make the tax 2 cents per $100 instead of 5 cents, leaving an increase of 100 per cent.

borrowed from the Commerce Department.

Already there has been a sizable dribble of miscellaneous contributions from citizens throughout the country whose attention was focused on the unhappy position of the relief staff by President Hoover's special message to the House on July 5, urging a new appropriation of $120,000 to sustain the committee during the 1933 fiscal year. To date, however, these volunteer funds hardly have been sufficient to provide stationery, much less meet the pay roll.

Every day brings its own peculiar problems in the drastic economy of the "Carry-on Club," as the payless workers are called by the employes of other governmental branches in the same building. Under the new order each problem is dealt with as it arises, but always with the understanding at the beginning that a shortage of hard money, while regrettable, does not of itself constitute an absolute obstacle to accomplishment.

One day this week the emergency problem first presented centered on talking with Sacramento by telephone. Early in June, while there still was some appropriation available, negotiations were begun with a California growers' association looking toward a cooperative enterprise to can several thousand tons of surplus peaches for distribution to the needy throughout the country next winter. The growers' committee, in session at Sacramento, wired the relief organization in Washington to call by phone to conclude the negotiations.

After considerable scratching of the head by the executive committee of the "Carry-On Club," it was decided the problem should be presented to Chairman Walter S. Gifford, who is also chairman of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Calling Mr. Gifford in New York over his personal private wire from relief headquarters, Fred C. Croxton, chairman of the committee on relief administration, asked Mr. Gifford, in effect, "What to do?"

Mr. Gifford promptly put through a personal call from New York. The negotiations then were concluded from Washington without a cent of cost to the Washington headquarters. Those particular relief peaches will be canned.

Division chiefs in charge of the various phases of the relief coordination work are pecking out their own essential letters at the vacant typewriter desks, and are prepared to stay with it as long as the present ribbons last. But because the water coolers had to be paid for monthly in advance, they have been removed from the relief headquarters. Of carbon paper and correspondence clips there is a plenty, but the chore of closing the windows and locking up at night, for want of a night watchman, has been turned over temporarily to the assistant director of Owen D. Young's committee on the mobilization of relief resources.

Operating with a Government appropriation of $99,280 in the 1932 fiscal year for clerical and stenographic salaries, this committee accounted for more than $500,000 in direct nongovernmental contributions to special relief problems, in addition to the regular operating budgets of the cooperating welfare organizations. A single Nation-wide employment campaign during February and March this year placed approximately 180,000 men in temporary make-work employment, which netted something more than $50,000,000 in wages.

When Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee, struck the $120,000 relief committee appropriation from the second deficiency bill early in June, the Senate restored the item.

Sustained by Speaker Garner in his refusal to reopen the question, Representative Byrns has told his colleagues on several occasions since the President sent in his special message ten days ago, that he would not permit the item to be voted out of the House appropriations committee at this session.

"Should this organization be discontinued," the President said in his special plea for the appropriation on July 5, "not only would its important functions of stimulation of private giving and coordination be destroyed, but there would be grave danger of national, State and local volunteer groups concluding that services such as they have rendered were no longer necessary. Voluntary effort amongst our people is of far more importance, both morally and financially, than the direct aid of local or other governmental agencies. To demobilize this organization might easily create widespread confusion and bring grave hardships when the need is greatest."

This, in brief, is the way members of the "Carry-on Club" views the matter; and while they are sometimes slightly envious these torrid days of the efectrical water coolers and mechanically conditioned air in the House of Representatives, they are too busy to give much time or attention to the mysteries of legislation.

That, they will tell you, is a problem for statesmen.

from Cleveland, had not caucused tonight, but Maurice Maschke, Cleveland leader and former national committeeman, said it was the general belief his delegation would join in the demand for the repeal plank.

As Secretary Hurley finished an address extolling the administration, cries of "We want beer" merged into a whole-hearted demonstration for the next speaker—David S. Ingalls, Republican candidate for governor, who campaigned on a repeal platform.

Ingalls reiterated his pledge for greater economy in State government, and said regarding prohibition that, personally, "if given an opportunity, I will vote for any alternative that gives promise of doing away with the new and unexpected evils arising out of prohibition, of which we are cognizant, and yet retains the benefits gained, such as abolition of the saloon."

Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the convention, digressed from a prepared speech long enough to criticize Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance address in which he promised to cut Federal expenditures 25 per cent "the first year."

"This," Dr. Fess said, "does not come in good grace from the governor in whose administration the expenditures of New York State in the first year increased 33 per cent. Neither does it come in good grace from Democratic members of the Senate and House who at every turn have blocked President Hoover's plea that they give him power to consolidate various branches of Government * * * so that he may effect economies."

The temper of some portions of the audience had been indicated. First when Senator Fess was proposed for temporary chairman, and later when he was introduced as such. In both instances, a sprinkling of "boos" were mingled with the applause.

The President's Callers.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Senator Steiwer, of Oregon.

Bus Depot Ruling Deadline Tonight

Operators Must Tell P.U.C. of Plans for Moving by Midnight.

The score of interstate bus line operators in Washington were making hurried arrangements yesterday to comply with the order of the Public Utilities Commission that they establish off-street terminals, if they remain in the second traffic zone, by August 1.

Although the bus lines have two weeks to comply with the order, they must inform the commission by midnight tonight as to their plans. Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, said the utilities body does not intend to allow any extensions beyond August 1.

Just what will be done in the cases of the Metropolitan and the Annapolis Hotels, where terminals are scheduled to be established, is conjectural, as it is very doubtful whether the remodeling can be done within two weeks.

CONEY ISLAND FIRE CALLED ACCIDENTAL

More than 1,000 Persons Are Made Homeless by Conflagration.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Over the smouldering ruins of four blocks at Coney Island plans were formulated today to reconstruct the damage from yesterday's fire, and an investigation was launched into its cause.

A rear guard of the departed army of fire fighters continued to play its hose on the four-block square area along the boardwalk which was wiped out in a five-hour blaze, causing property loss between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, resulting in injuries to several hundred persons and rendering upwards of 1,000 homeless.

Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy decided after an exhaustive investigation that the conflagration was accidental in cause.

A group of boys started a bonfire under the boardwalk near Twenty-third street without malicious intent, he explained, and the flames ignited the wooden structure. The blaze jumped to a motordrome and fed rapidly on oil-soaked timbers and a quantity of gasoline.

For precaution's sake, firemen were ordered into the devastated sector to search the debris. No one was reported to have been killed, but an 85-year-old woman was said to be missing. About 50 persons still were in hospitals with superficial burns.

Among the hundreds of sufferers was Max Sanger, 60-year-old baker. He withdrew his life savings of $2,600 from the bank the other day and pinned it in his trousers until he could pay off a mortgage on his home. He left his clothes in a bathhouse and the money was burned to ashes.

Canadian-U. S. Peace Garden Is Dedicated

Dunseith, N. Dak., July 14 (A.P.).—The international peace garden, marking more than 100 years of peace between Canada and the United States, was formally dedicated today.

Representatives of both countries came to attend the ceremonies at the park, consisting of 3,000 acres of land along the Canadian-United States border. A cairn, constructed of rough builders, was unveiled.

Baltimore Is Awarded Convention.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 14 (A.P.).—The National Confectionery Salesmen's Association of America closed its annual meeting today with the selection of Baltimore as its 1933 convention city. James F. McHugh, of New York, was elected president, and John G. Pentz, of Baltimore, vice president.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENTS."

(Borrowing an idea from the decision at Lausanne on reparations.)

MR. JOHN DOE,
235 Main Street,
Cos Cob, Conn.

Dear sir: This is to announce that in view of your financial difficulties, lack of permanent employment and the general situation, we have decided to make a reduction in the ten months' rent owed us by you.

Your indebtedness to us is $533.33, but our officers in conference have decided to cut this figure to $3.98, payable in cash, checks or what have you?

We trust this will lift considerable weight from your shoulders and result in more amicable relations all around. Very truly yours,

NOOPS REAL ESTATE CORP.

(Gentlemen's Agreement.)

The above offer of settlement is not to mean anything unless the Noops Real Estate Corporation shall prevail upon its creditors to accept a satisfactory settlement of all outstanding obligations. If no such settlements can be effected it is hereby agreed and understood that John Doe still owes us $533.33, and no fooling.

MR. LUKE DOAKES,
378 Hemlock avenue,
Ypsilanti, Mich.

Dear sir:

As you have ignored all bills and letters reminding you that you have owed us ten time payments on your automobile for the past three years, and as there seems to be nothing we can attach, our directors have decided to reduce your debt to us from $175 to $17.50, a payment of 10 cents on the dollar.

We have further decided to give you until June 15, 1935, to make this payment.

Hoping that the wife and children are well and that your asthma is better, we are

Very respectfully,

ACME MOTOR CAR CO.

(Gentlemen's Agreement.)

We make the above propoaition in the belief that most of the firms to which we owe money will listen to reason, and take what we offer. In the event that they remain obstinate, a new situation will arise and the offer contained in our letter to you will become null and void. Don't say we didn't warn you.

* * * *

DEAR Ex-Husband:

After a terrific battle with my conscience, I have come to the conclusion that the alimony of $100 a week awarded me by the court is excessive. This probably explains why you are 22 weeks behind. As reflecting some of my old love and consideration, I have decided to let you pay me whatever is convenient and easy at such times as you see fit. If you could send me two bits now it would help.

Give my love to your new wife, and always remember to put on your heavy flannels September 1.

Your former wife, MINNIE.

(Gentleman's and Lady's Agreement.)

The above offer goes only in case all those department stores forget where I live, and the landlord submits no further bills, and I learn to grow my own vegetables, you big horse thief!

THINKING AHEAD.

VETERANS CONTINUE MARCH AT CAPITOL, SEEKING BONUS

tis. Gen. Glassford was in the office of Chief of Staff Douglas MacArthur with Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler when the Marines were sent to the Capitol. The order was countermanded when the superintendent of police advised Admiral Butler, who is commandant of the Navy Yard, that their assistance was not needed.

Cheered by Veterans.

Shortly before 6 o'clock, the two peace-time companies of Marines marched into the Capitol Building and were loudly cheered by the veterans. A few minutes later a Marine captain dashed onto the plaza and hurried into the basement of the Capitol. Then the Marines marched out again.

When the Marines arrived Gen. Glassford and Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby were in conference with Chief of Staff Douglas A. MacArthur at the War Department with reference to the situation created by the bonus army.

Gen. Glassford hurried to the Capitol and with Admiral Butler and the sergeats at arms of the Senate and House conferred with Vice President Curtis. At the conclusion of the conference Gen. Glassford announced he had orders from "competent authority" to clear the Capitol grounds, and to close the grounds to all vehicular traffic.

Vice President Curtis rescinded this order after he had talked with Senator Bingham. The police head said he would permit the veterans to march up and down all night on the easterly fringe of the plaza.

The 150 veterans from the Southern States who were squatting in eight privately owned buildings on New York avenue near Twenty-first street were evicted without trouble late yesterday by Capt Edward J. Kelly. The order for eviction was issued by the District Commissioners. The men moved outside the buildings to the lawns. They will seek other quarters today.

Gen. Glassford announced last night he would take no more orders from the Capitol police board composed of the sergeant at arms of both the Senate and House and Capt. Stephen Gnash. He will take orders only from the Vice President and Speaker Garner.

Then he revoked an order issued by Capitol Architect David Lynn, forbidding the taking of photographs and rescinding the permits issued to news and movie picture photographers.

The police superintendent had little difficulty in clearing the plaza. He mounted the band stand and explained the plans for clearing the area and the crowd of veterans and spectators moved off in an orderly manner.

After a conference with Gen. MacArthur, Gen. Glassford explained that only the President has the authority to call on the regular military units to augment police.

If the police were inadequate, he said, the District Commissioners could call on the President for aid. Such a procedure was not followed in the summoning of the marines.

The Marines were cheered by the ragged veterans as they swung into the Capitol Grounds from East Capitol street, passing the mess line of former soldiers who were receiving their supper of beans and bread near the Library of Congress.

Robertson Collapses Twice.

R. W. Robertson, leader of the tattered group at the Capitol, collapsed twice during the heat yesterday, but was in command of his men last night. He refused to permit the "red element" of the bonus army to join his men as a group in the picketing of the Capitol, but said they could join as individuals.

John Pace, the leader of the Communists, asked Robertson last night if he would permit the radical group to join the Capitol pickets. "If you start passing that red literature around like you fellows did the other day you'll get thrown off the grounds just like they did," he replied.

The radicals have obtained permission for a parade to the Capitol, to start at 10 o'clock this morning from Fifteenth street and Constitution avenue.

Loan Limit Extended.

The House and Senate yesterday passed a bill extending to July 25 the time within which the Government will furnish bonus seekers with funds to take them home. The original provision expired last midnight.

President Hoover asked the extension in hopes that once Congress adjourns most of the men here will wish to depart. Since the bill was passed permitting the men to obtain loans on their certificates to pay for transportation and subsistence, approximating 1,900 veterans have received transportation home.

REYNOLDS' BROTHER WAITED BY PROBERS

Is Expected to Demand and Finance Thorough Quiz in Winston-Salem.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 14 (U.P.).—The investigation of the mysterious death of 20-year-old Smith Reynolds was understood today to be awaiting the arrival of Smith's older brother, Richard J. Reynolds, son and heir to the name of the founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

"Young Dick," as he is called in Winston-Salem, was on his yacht near the Azores Islands when Smith fell mortally shot a week ago Wednesday morning. He was advised by radio of the tragedy and sent word immediately that he was coming to Winston-Salem. No further word had been received until today when a cablegram to his secretary here revealed that he could not reach Winston-Salem for at least another week.

"Young Dick" is known hereabouts as a man of action. Quiet and unassuming under usual circumstances he becomes fiery and decisive, it is said, when aroused. Winston-Salem citizens believe he will demand, and probably what is more important, finance full investigation of the case.

Richard, jr., has spent little time in Winston-Salem of late. Some months ago he took to life at sea.

Authorities continued minor investigations today. They gathered in bits of evidence which would constitute exhibits should the case go before a grand jury. A section of the door jamb from the bathroom opening off Libby Holman's boudoir was taken and added to the Mauser automatic with which Smith was killed, bits of the steel jacket from the fatal bullet and like articles, in the safe of Sheriff Transou Scott. The door jamb carries fingerprints which may at some time be of value.

PACT WON'T SHIFT U. S. DEBT POLICY

preted, that I do not propose that the American people shall be pressed into any line of action or that our policies shall be in any way influenced by such a combination either open or implied."

The President's statement thus definitely sweeps away the skepticisms that had been apparent in some quarters over the silent role of the American officials present during the course of the Lausanne negotiations. It is now definitely assured that neither Ambassador Hugh Gibson, Minister Hugh Wilson nor Delegate Norman Davis ever discussed the American reaction to the agreements Premier Herriot and Prime Minister MacDonald had initialed there.

Temperate and Considerate.

While the British and French foreign offices were frantically trying to find a basis for reconciling their conflicting interpretations of the Lausanne pact, the President has taken the action which definitely removes the United States from any effect of an unfriendly or unfavorable reading of the treaty. The language of the President was temperate and considerate. He indicated his reluctance to believe that the nations now in owing this country would enter upon any joint move for the settlement of their American obligations. Such a move would be in contradiction to the traditional policy of this Government, which has always insisted that each country make its own arrangements for funding its financial commitments to the United States.

However, if the terms of the Franco-British pact go as far as Premier Herriot believes, the United States will step out from such a combination.

DRY UNIT OPPOSES BACKING OF HOOVER

ization, the National Association of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment. With five minutes allotted to each, those attending presented individual views. Differences of opinion developed, but leaders expressed confidence that further discussions would eliminate them.

One group, in which Dr. Oliver W. Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, was prominent, favored an immediate declaration for the reelection of President Hoover, confident that he had not changed his attitude against repeal.

A second group which included Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, who represent the Methodist Churches North and South, on the Board of Strategy, wanted to await a personal declaration from the President before action by the board.

A large part of the discussion concerned the question whether a member of Congress who votes for the submission of an amendment to repeal the eighteenth, thereby votes for repeal. This the prohibition leaders saw as an important factor with relation to their policy regarding elections to the Senate and the House.

Two Oil Stations And Store Robbed

Victims in Two of Holdups Are Bound by Bandits; Woman Involved.

Two filling stations and a grocery store were robbed at pistol point late last night. In both of the gasoline station holdups, the managers were tied by the bandits and police held the theory that the same men robbed both places. Once they escaped in a taxicab in which a woman was awaiting them.

After trussing William Pratt, manager of a station at Second street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, the men robbed him of $2.50 and took $11 from the cash register. A short time later DeHaven Wells, manager of a station at 16 New York avenue northeast, and Joseph Tutwieler, his assistant, were tied up and robbed. Here the bandits got $5 from Wells, Tutwieler's watch and $29 from the cash register.

Herman Bockrock, proprietor of a store at 2032 Seventeenth street northwest, was held up by three colored men, who took $3.

Hoover Is Urged to Take Firm Stand on Dry Issue

(Associated Press).

Leaving the White House yesterday afternoon, C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, said he had advised President Hoover to take an "unequivocal stand" on prohibition in his forthcoming speech accepting renomination.

Mr Slemp said he suggested that the President declare approval of an amendment to replace the eighteenth.

Although Mr. Slemp declined to give Mr. Hoover's reaction, he said he believed Mr. Hoover would follow this line.

Mr Slemp, who is on the committee which will notify the President formally of his renomination, said the Chief Executive had told him the ceremonies would be held early in August, certainly before the middle of the month. Mr. Slemp quoted the President as saying the acceptance speech would be delivered in Washington, although the exact spot had not been chosen. The south portico of the White House has been suggested.

Weather Experts Clash Today, St. Swithin's Day

(Associated Press.)

Two famous weather prophets clash today and the next 40 days will tell who wins.

For today is St. Swithin's Day, and its weather, so runs tradition, governs the weather of the next six weeks. But the U. S. Weather Bureau regards the good saint with a fishy stare and offers a rival version of how the next 40 days' weather will trend.

Rain on St. Swithin's Day means 40 days of rain, the legend says, while a fair July 15 is sure to bring 40 days of unbroken sunshine. But the Weather Bureau claims good reason to believe there will be plenty of rain between now and September 1, whether it rains on St. Swithin's Day or not.

Weather swings from wet to dry extremes and back again, the bureau has found, and just now the swing is in the wet direction.

PARIS MAKES PUBLIC 'GENTLEMEN'S PACT'

Secret Fifth Clause Dealing Directly With War Debts Is Denied.

Paris, July 14 (A.P.).—The foreign office today made public the much-discussed "gentlemen's agreement" in which the European creditor powers declared their leniency toward Germany on the score of reparations would not be effective until they obtained "satisfactory settlement" of their own debts to the United States.

The text follows:

"The Lausanne agreement will not definitely go into force until after the ratifications foreseen in those accords.

"Concerning the creditor governments in whose name this process-verbal is initiated, ratification will not be effected before a satisfactory settlement is obtained between them and their own creditors.

"They will have every liberty to explain their position to their respective parliaments, but no precise reference to the present arrangement will appear in the text of the accord with Germany.

Would Take Full Effect.

"If it follows that a satisfactory settlement of their own debts is obtained, the governments of the above-named creditor countries will proceed to ratification, and the accord with Germany will take its full effect.

"But in case the settlement in question can not be obtained, the accord with Germany will not be ratified.

"New situation will thus be created and the interested governments will have to agree on what they should do.

"In this eventuality the legal position of all the interested governments would become what it was before the Hoover moratorium.

"Notification of this accord will be made to the German government."

The agreement is dated at Lausanne, July 2.

Letter by Chamberlain.

In connection with the agreement there was a covering letter by Neville Chamberlin, British chancellor of the exchequer, to the government of France.

It read:

"The government of the United Kingdom would have been very happy if it would have been possible to cancel the war debt of France in the general scheme of cancellation of war debts and reparations.

"In the present circumstances it regrets not to be able to take any definite measure modifying the agreement on war debts funding or Franco-British war debts.

"However, it agrees that the suspension foreseen by the declaration of June 16 applies to the annuities owing under the terms of war debts funding and under the terms of annex No. 1 of the Hague agreement of August 31, 1929, until the coming into force of the Lausanne agreement, or until it has been decided not to ratify the latter agreement.

No Indication of Recession.

"In the eventuality of nonratification of the Lausanne agreement, the legal position of all interested governments in relation to one another would again become that which existed under the terms of the Hague agreement of January 20, 1930, and the accord on war debts funding.

"In this case the British and French governments will have to examine the whole situation thus created."

Meanwhile, there was no indication that the government had receded from Premier Edouard Herriot's interpretation of the new Franco-British accord, which he has asserted means that Britain can not conclude a debt settlement with America without first talking things over with France.

An official authorized to speak for the premier denied reports published abroad that the accord contained a secret fifth clause directly dealing with war debts.

Studies Arms Question.

After publication of the "gentlemen's agreement" the premier turned from financial problems connected with the Lausanne conference to the question of disarmament. He studied the text of a resolution which the general committee of the disarmament conference has been preparing. He was assisted by Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war; Gen Gamelin, chief of the general staff, and Gen. Maxime Weygand. The premier will leave for Geneva Sunday.

Official circles were silent tonight concerning the British statement that the accord did not have any connection with war debts to the United States.

11,201 Union Members Ask Strike in New York

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Union men and women employed in the cloak and suit industry have voted to authorize their union officials to call a strike to enforce their demands made on employers, headquarters of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union announced today.

The vote in favor of a strike was 11,201 to 425 voting in opposition. A date for the projected strike will be set, probably tomorrow.

HEAT WILL CONTINUE HERE, IS FORECAST

Trio in District Overcome; Torrid Wave Over Most of U. S. Fatal to 3.

With no relief in sight and continued warm weather predicted for today and tomorrow, the official temperature at the U. S. Weather Bureau showed a registration of 92 degrees at 3:45 p. m. yesterday while the kiosk needle registered 102.

Two men and a woman were overcome by the heat. Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis, 39, of 2059 H street northeast, was overcome at Twentieth and H streets northwest. She was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Joe Melton, 33, of Gainesville, Ga., a bonus marcher, collapsed while marching with his comrades around the Capitol plaza. He was treated at Casualty Hospital.

Humidity Unusually High.

Tom Stewart, colored, 45, of 2208 Eighth street northwest, was overcome at his home. He was taken by the rescue squad to Freedman's Hospital.

Humidity contributed to the general discomfort, being well over half the saturation point.

(Associated Press.)

A midsummer heat wave rolled across most of the United States yesterday, causing at least three fatalities and shattering season records at several points.

Wheeling, W. Va., reported one death at a maximum temperature of 99 degrees; Newark, N. J., reported another and Baltimore a third as the thermometer mounted through the day. It was the third death from the heat for Baltimore in two days.

The Midwest and Southwest registered scorching antics on the part of the mercury. Cleveland had it easy at 70 degrees, but most of Ohio sweltered in the 90's. One person was drowned trying to escape the sun's rays in Cleveland and another was overcome in Dayton.

Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma justified early predictions that it would be the hottest day of the year in some places. Hill City, Kans., took the honors, with a mark of 105; Hays, Kans., was a close second, at 103, and Bartlesville, Okla., was third in that section, at 100, the hottest of the season. It was 95 in Oklahoma City and 96 in Kansas City, Mo.

Warm in Canada.

The South was not lagging in record temperatures. The thermometer on top of the Federal Fish Hatchery at Orangeburg, S. C., soared to 101. Danville, Va., reported the same temperature while Roanoke had 100. Norfolk, Va., hung up a new high for the year at 95. Other high readings were Atlanta, Ga., 92; Birmingham, Ala., 89; Memphis, Tenn., 95.

New York City hoped for showers after a maximum degree of 85, but the rest of the East was not so badly affected. Generally warmer weather was reported for the Canadian Northwest, the Dakotas, the Middle Atlantic States and southern New England. The Pacific Coast was comfortable between moderate temperature ranges.

BRITISH DENY MOVE TO NULLIFY DEBTS

official statements was to make more sharp than ever the difference of opinion between France and Great Britain over exactly what the Franco-British accord means.

Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, said in Paris that it meant Great Britain might not negotiate an American debt settlement without first consulting his government. Britain contends that is not true.

A statement explaining this contention in detail was issued at No. 10 Downing street, the official residence of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. It said:

"In connection with reports which have been put into circulation as to the interpretation of the Anglo-French declaration to which other governments have been invited to adhere, there is no truth in any statement that it is applicable to the question of British debts due the United States of America.

Bound Two Governments.

"The use of the words 'European regime' in the accord expressly excludes from its purview any question affecting non-European countries."

The Franco-British accord bound the two governments to consult with complete candor on "any questions * * * similar in origin to that now so happily settled at Lausanne which may affect the European regime."

The Downing street statement said Mr. MacDonald explained the whole question in his House of Commons speech Tuesday evening when he said:

"In view of the grievous results likely to follow upon any representations made either here or in America that at Lausanne Eurone has combined to present something in the nature of an ultimatum to the United States, I want to make it absolutely clear that all that was done at Lausanne was to straighten out the internal difficulties of Europe which in all conscience are many, and to agree to proposals which the nations represented there believe are both essential and possible."

Chamberlain's Statement.

The second of today's official statements came from the treasury office over which Neville Chamberlain presides as chancellor of the exchequer. It refers to assertions made by the chancellor "in the heat of debate" with Winston Churchill in the House of Commons Monday.

"A misunderstanding has arisen regarding Mr. Chamberlain's reference to conversations with representatives of the United States," the statement said.

"He did not suggest, and of course had no intention of suggesting, that representatives of the United States approved either tacitly or explicitly what was done at Lausanne.

"The proceedings there were throughout on the basis that the right course was to seek a European solution of reparations without involving the United States in the discussion."

Press reaction to the Franco-British accord was mixed. Some newspapers, approving it, referred to it as the "spirit of Lausanne treaty."

High government sources explained that if the French government honestly believes the accord is applicable to the American debts it may be disillusioned.

Street to Talk on St. Vincent's Home.

St. Vincent's Home and School will be the subject of the next talk over WRC by Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, in his series of "Little Journeys to the House of Great Services." Mr. Street will discuss the work of this institution from 4:45 to 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

PARLEY MAY OFFER LATIN PEACE PLAN

Mending of Breach Between Argentina and Uruguay Is Objective.

Buenos Aires, July 14 (A.P.).—An offer of mediation between Argentina and Uruguay may result from discussions inaugurated today by several Latin-American and European ambassadors at the suggestion of a South American which has not been publicly identified.

Diplomatic relations between the two nations were broken yesterday. Uruguay, was angered because Argentina showed a disposition to believe erroneous reports that Gen. Severo Toranzo, former commander of the Argentine army and now in exile in Uruguay, was aboard a cruiser of the Uruguayan navy when the ship came to Buenos Aires for the celebration of Argentine independence day, July 9.

Anti-Uruguayan sentiment has developed in Argentina as a result of charges that Argentine exiles in Uruguay have been permitted to foster movements against their home government.

The United States embassy advised Washington of the breach in relations, but this evening had received no instructions.

Presidential Parley Delayed.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, July 14 (A.P.).—The proposed conference in Honduras to nominate a single Liberal candidate for the Presidency of Nicaragua from among five aspirants has been postponed pending an interview between a representative of Gen. Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent, and his candidate, Gen. Horacio Portocarrero. Gen. Manuel Balladares, Sandino supporter, who planned the conference, which was to be held at San Lorenzo, a Honduran port, has gone to Salvador to talk with Gen. Porto-Carrero.

Farmers Battle Troops.

Chihuahua City, Chi., July 14 (A.P.).—Federal troops were rushed today to western Chihuahua with orders to disarm all farmers following a battle at Seapalapan Bustillo, mountain village 50 miles west of here, in which nine civilians and one federal soldier were killed and one soldier was wounded. The battle, which lasted 25 minutes, occurred when 60 farmers resisted a small detachment of soldiers sent to disarm Agrarians.

Paraguay Asked to Reconsider.

Asuncion, Paraguay, July 14 (A.P.).—The five neutral nations at the conference in Washington, which is seeking to bring about peace between Bolivia and Paraguay and end their old feud over the Gran Chaco boundary, sent a note to the Paraguayan government today asking it to modify its recent resolve to withdraw its delegates from the conference. The general impression here, however, was that the Paraguayan government would insist that its delegates return home.

Hoover Confers Until Late Hour

Secretaries Mills and Hyde Stay Long at White House Parley.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover, after a round of conferences which lasted through almost the entire day, last night carried on his conversations with governmental advisers until a late hour. Secretaries Mills and Hyde had dinner at the White House and remained with the Chief Executive in the Lincoln study for almost two hours.

It was learned from an authoritative administration source that the two Cabinet officers and the President had discussed generally the entire governmental situation, including the relief and farm problems.

Just before leaving his office near sundown, Mr. Hoover conferred with Mr. Mills and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board and chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Corporation. Neither would discuss the conference. The President had conferred earlier with Mr. Mills, and talked three times with Secretary Stimson.

Fireman Is Burned As Bank Caves In

Offenbacher Is Hurled Into Mass of Hot Ashes at Dump Fire.

Precipitated into a mass of hot ashes when a bank from which he was fighting a dump fire caved in last night at Twenty-fourth and D streets northeast, Hurley F. Offenbacher, 27, fireman, attached to No. 10 Engine Company, was badly burned.

Firemen were called to the blazing dump about 10:30 o'clock. Offenbacher was stationed at the nozzle of one of the hose lines and was fighting the fire from the vantage point of a bank above it.

The ground caved in without warning and he was plunged into the hot ashes. Offenbacher was taken to Casualty Hospital, where he was admitted in an undetermined condition, with first and second degree burns of the legs and body. He lives at 2027 West Virginia avenue northeast.

Doolittle Is Uninjured In Indiana Plane Crash

Evansville, Ind., July 14 (A.P.).—James Doolittle, aviator, escaped uninjured here this morning when his low-wing Orion monoplane, a new speed creation, crashed in landing at the Evansville Municipal Airport.

The impact drove the gasoline tank through one wing.

Foreign News in Brief

Bombay, July 14 (A.P.).—When Miss Madeline Slade, disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, arrived at Chapra today to consult with Nationalist leaders, she was served with a notice ordering her to leave the district within twelve hours and not to return for a month. The notice was based on a new ordinance. Four days ago she had to leave Bombay within 24 hours under similar circumstances.

Nice, France, July 14 (A.P.).—Seven bodies, one that of a woman, were recovered today from the flood waters of the River Paillon, swollen by mountain torrents. An undetermined number of homeless unemployed who were in the habit of sleeping under the bridges across the river were drowned.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 14 (A.P.).—Thomas Bat'a, the millionaire shoemaker whose factories won him the title of the Henry Ford of Europe, was buried today in a forest cemetery beside the pilot who died with him in an airplane crash on Tuesday. Nearly 20,000 of his employes attended.

Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, July 14 (A.P.).—Dennis Nilson-Terry, British actor, died here today of pneumonia after several days' illness. He was 37.

Moscow, U. S. S. R., July 14 (A.P.).—Vyacheslaff Molotoff, president of the Council of People's Commissars, warned the Ukrainian Communist Conference in a speech published here today against neglecting agriculture for the sake of industrial development. "The Bolsheviki must remember that our industrial construction can not develop without the progress of agriculture," he said.

Madrid, Spain, July 14 (A.P.).—President Niceto Alcala Zamora presented gifts to numerous hospitals and orphanages today in celebration of the first anniversary of Republican parliamentary rule in Spain.

Belfast, July 13 (A.P.).—Police in armored cars broke up a two-hour riot between Orangemen and Free Staters today in the neutral territory between the Falls and Shankill Districts of Belfast. Numerous heads were cracked. The district has been the scene of many similar clashes.

Pirmasens, Germany, July 14 (A.P.).—Gregor Strasser, Adolf Hitler's chief lieutenant in the National Socialist party, predicted in a campaign speech here today that his chief would be chancellor of Germany after the election on July 31.

Telegraphic Dispatches

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—The Rajah of Jubal, a tiny kingdom in the Himalaya Mountains, arrived in New York on a world tour today and was greeted at City Hall. Mayor Walker kept him waiting 40 minutes. The rajah is absolute ruler over 25,000 subjects.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Less than two minutes after the policeman on the beat passed by on his usual way to lunch, the Fort Hamilton branch of the Bank of Manhattan in Brooklyn was robbed of $5,500 today by three bandits.

Duluth, Minn., July 14 (A.P.).—Three men were killed early this evening when a six-passenger seaplane crashed here just off St. Louis Bay, near the heart of the city. They were Hank O'Hara, 23, pilot, Duluth; Robert Bean, 18, Duluth; Lloyd Rice, Virginia, Minn.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—The liner Transylvania, a shining new soda fountain set up in the verandah cafe and the smoking room bar transformed into soft drink station, sailed today with 600 members of the American Bible Conference Association on a seven-day cruise to Bermuda and Halifax.

SCORE OF INQUIRIES TO TRAIL IN WAKE OF 72d CONGRESS

far made by the corporation. Mr. Meyer announced that the compilation of this information would require at least two weeks.

Both the Senate and the House have appointed committees this time to keep an eye on campaign expenditures. In the past, such committees have uncovered some devastating material, but in this lean year the outlook is not so exciting.

Senate investigations, authorized by the Seventy-first Congress, but which have been continued, are as follows:

A survey of the condition of Indians in the United States. The chief surveyer, Senator Frazier (Republican), of North Dakota, has not announced his plans for the summer.

Indian Lands Inquiry.

An investigation of Indian lands not subject to taxation. This one was sponsored by Senator Steiwer (Republican), of Oregon. He is up for reelection this year, however, and therefore probably will have other things to think about.

An investigation of postal leasing activities. This is in charge of Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin.

An investigation of the Alaska railroads—as delightful a summer "probe" as was ever conceived. The committee detailed to this is headed by Senator Howell (Republican), of Nebraska.

An investigation of American commercial relations with China, which is in charge of Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada. Last year Mr. Pittman went to China on this investigation.

The investigation of American wild life. This is in charge of Senator Wolcott (Republican), of Connecticut. This committee's last adventure into the wilds and its subsequent expense account caused a furore.

In addition to these continuing investigations there are the following Senate investigations ordered by the Seventy-second Congress:

An inquiry into the affairs of the Federal Farm Board by the Senate committee on agriculture and forestry.

An inquiry into postal air and ocean mail contracts by the postoffice committee.

The aforementioned Couzens investigation of the Reconstruction Corporation.

An inquiry into wheat, meat and sugar prices by the committee on agriculture.

Stock Exchange Inquiry.

An investigation of the New York Stock Exchange by the committee on banking and currency.

A study of the effect of the deflation of foreign currencies on American imports. This is to be made by a special committee headed by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

An inquiry into the Pyramid Lake Indian Reservation in Nevada by the public lands committee.

An inquiry into the manner in which the Department of Justice has handled cases in Cleveland, involving alleged fraudulent use of the mails.

An inquiry respecting utilization of water resources of certain California rivers.

An investigation of District of Columbia rents by the District of Columbia committee.

An investigation of campaign expenditures. This is in charge of Senator Howell, of Nebraska, who has been allotted $25,000 for expenses.

The House committee assigned to investigate campaign expenditures is headed by Representative Ragon (Democrat), of Arkansas. However, this committee has only $10,000 at its disposal, and consequently is not expected to be as active as the Howell contingent.

Other House investigations include the Rayburn inquiry into holding companies, the Shannon inquiry into Federal competition with private business, an investigation of postoffice construction projects, a study of overlapping taxation in Federal, State and municipal government, an inquiry into the silver situation, and an investigation into the fitness of a California judge.

15 WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE AT CARNIVAL

Show Retreats After Week of Threats Ending With Raid by Gang.

The battered remains of Roland's Exposition, a traveling carnival, yesterday packed up its tents and amusements and left Mechanicsville, Md., where some fifteen of its members were wounded yesterday in a gun battle with an unknown number of local marksmen.

No arrests had been made last night, although it was rumored that members of two or three related families constituted the gang which opened fire on carnival men after a week of bickering and threats. None of those injured in yesterday's battle are seriously hurt, but a carnival member shot early in the week is near death in the Leonardtown Hospital.

The 20-minute gun battle started early yesterday when a car full of men drove into the carnival grounds and opened fire with shotguns on a line of stands and booths. The personnel of the traveling show returned the fire, townspeople said, but none of the attackers are known to have been injured. Earlier in the week, when a local man wounded in a fight with a carnival man was being taken to the hospital, the show people shot five times at the car, it was said in Mechanicsville.

Among those shot were Frank Blizzard, his wife, Anna, and Clarence Hill. Mrs. Blizzard had a child in her arms at the time, but it was not wounded. These three were treated at Casualty Hospital here.

Prosperity Hope Is Seen In Rejuvenation Method

Punxsutawney, Pa., July 14 (A.P.).—The results of almost 1,000 cases of using the Steinach rejuvenation method for old age in the past ten years were reported in a formal medical meeting here tonight.

They were wholly different from the popular idea of being made young again. Their principal effects were described as such an increase in mental efficiency that the treatment was gravely suggested as of possible use to the Nation's leaders in helping out of the present economic slump.

The report was made by Dr. Harry Benjamin, of New York, to the tricounty meeting of physicians sponsored by the Jefferson County, Pa., Medical Association. The Steinach method is treatment of a person's own endocrine glands without recourse to transplants or medicine.

TRACTION BILL VOTE IS EXPECTED TODAY

Senate Speeches Postpone Action Yesterday; Austin to Lead Battle.

Although the House traction merger bill technically was before the Senate all day yesterday, speeches by Senators Norris (Republican), Nebraska, Shipstead (Republican), Minnesota, and others, prevented one word of merger debate.

The issue continues the first order of business today, but Senator Shipstead has indicated he will resume his speech.

Throughout yesterday's harangue on power trusts, inland waterways and diverse other subjects, Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, Senate sponsor of the merger bill, patiently waited an opportunity to bring to a vote his motion for immediate consideration of the merger.

His arch opponents on consolidation, Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, likewise was continuously present in the chamber. The burden of consolidation debate is expected to fall on these two.

Senator Austin last night expressed conviction that his motion will be brought to a vote today.

Your basement is cool and quiet and comfortable—make it USABLE by putting in gas heat.

Gas makes fuel storage unnecessary, and gives you the space now taken by the fuel bin. And gas heat is so clean and quiet that the basement is every bit as neat and usable as any room in the house. Some paint and wallboard—and you have a spacious recreation room that is cool in summer, warm in winter—a room added to your house at trifling cost.

Now is the time to install gas heat, so that you may be comfortable this summer. Then, next fall, you're all ready to continue your comfort—light a pilot, set the automatic temperature control, and gas will keep your whole house at exactly the degree of warmth you like, without a moment's work on your part.

WILLIAM M. GEDDES DIES AT SANITARIUM

Former Treasury Officer to Be Buried in Nebraska Next Saturday.

William M. Geddes, 75, former U. S. Treasury officer, who was in charge of all Government exhibits at national expositions since 1896, died yesterday at Washington Sanitarium. Mr. Geddes had been in failing health since he suffered a stroke three years ago after his retirement from the Treasury Department.

Born in Zanesville, Ohio, Mr. Geddes began his career as a newspaper publisher, founding newspapers at Paxaw and Amboy, Ill. He later edited and published the Grand Island Independent and South Omaha Sun. He was active in Republican circles in Nebraska for many years, serving seven terms in the city council and one as mayor of Grand Island, Nebr.

Active in Masonry.

He was elected chief clerk of the Nebraska House of Representative in 1903, when former Senator John M. Thurston was sent to Washington. He was active in Masonry in Nebraska and Washington, being a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Royal Arch, Knights Templar and Shrine, the latter of Almas Temple.

During his latter years of Treasury service, Mr. Geddes was a site agent in the supervising architect's office, selecting the sites for many Federal buildings throughout the country. He was also active in the acquisition of property on Pennsylvania avenue in the Federal development of the Capital.

Official at Expositions.

National expositions at which Mr. Geddes had charge of Government exhibits included: The Transmississippi Exposition in 1898 at Omaha, Nebr.; the Buffalo Exposition in 1901, the World's Fair at St. Louis in 1904, the Portland (Oreg.) Exposition in 1905, the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition in Seattle, Wash., in 1909, and finally the Jamestown, Va., Tercentennial Exposition.

He is survived by his wife, two children, Bond P. Geddes, of 20 Grafton street, Chevy Chase, Md., former Washington newspaper correspondent, now with the Radio Manufacturers Association of New York, and Mrs. Margaret G. Johnston, of 8 Grafton street, Chevy Chase, Md., wife of Walter A. Johnston, local attorney.

Funeral services will be held next Saturday at Grand Island, Nebr.

Nicholas H. Auth Dies at Residence

Requiem Mass to Be Said at Blessed Sacrament on Monday.

Nicholas H. Auth, 28, son of Henry J. Auth, secretary of the Auth Provision Co., died yesterday at his home, 5201 Thirty-eighth street northwest, after an illness of seven months.

Until his illness, Mr. Auth was assistant secretary and a member of the board of directors of the Auth Co. Born in Washington, he attended the Columbia High School and McKinley Training School.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret M. Auth; his mother, Mrs. Agnes E. Auth, and father; a brother, Henry J. Auth, jr., and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Keenan. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Monday from the residence. Requiem mass will follow at 9:30 a. m. at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

RUSH WILLIAMSON RITES.

Funeral Today in New Market, Va., His Birthplace.

Funeral services for Rush H. Williamson, 54, former special assistant to the Attorney General, who died Wednesday in New York, will be held today in New Market, Va., his birthplace.

Mr. Williamson made his home here at 3601 Connecticut avenue northwest. He was a member of the law firm of Donovan, Bond, Raichle & Alvord.

Police Aiding in Search For Missing Capital Boy

Police of this city and nearby last night were looking for James Gordon Helm, who disappeared from his home at 1038 Jackson street northeast yesterday, leaving a note saying he was "going for a long trip."

The boy's father, William A. Helm, statistical engineer for the Potomac Electric Power Co., asked police aid in locating the boy.

REAR ADMIRAL SNOW DEAD AT AGE OF 86

President of General Court Martial in War Expires in Massachusetts.

Brookline, Mass., July 14 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Albert Sydney Snow, United States Navy, retired, former commandant of the Boston Navy Yard and president of the general court-martial during the World War, died late today at Corey Hill Hospital, Brookline. He was 86.

Rear Admiral Snow had a long and distinguished naval career, marked by service in the last three wars in which the United States was involved, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War. He had been ill for some time.

He was born in Rockland, Me., November 18, 1845, and entered the United States Naval Academy in 1861. He was assigned to service on the Union ship Marblehead engaged in the pursuit of the Confederate vessels, Florida and Tallahasse. He was graduated from the Academy in 1865.

In 1871 he served with a punitive expedition sent to Korea as the result of an American ship being fired upon. Between 1883 and 1887 he was engaged in a geographic survey of the Alaskan Coast. During the Spanish-American War he was the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Badger and after the war in 1898 and 1899 was commandant of the naval station at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

He was made commandant of the Boston Navy Yard in 1905, serving in that capacity until his retirement as rear admiral in 1907. With the outbreak of the World War he was called back to service and made president of the general court at the Boston Navy Yard.

At the time of his death only one other member of the Naval Academy class of 1865, with which he was graduated, was living. He is Admiral W. H. Bronson, of Washington.

Admiral Snow married Miss Frances M. Keating, of Rockland, on March 13, 1873. She survives him, together with a daughter, Miss Mabel E. Snow, of Brookline, and two sons, Lieut. Comdr. Carlton F. Snow, retired, of Rockland, Me., and Sydney I. Snow, of the staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

2,000 Repealists Arrive in Capital

Plan for Demonstration Sunday in Front of White House.

About 2,000 members of the Conquering Christian Crusaders, an organization which stands for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, payment of the bonus and a $10,000,000,000 prosperity loan, are in Washington, according to Henry W. Hayssen, commander.

The slogan of the organization is "Watch and Pray," and a song and prayer demonstration will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. in front of the White House, Hayssen said. The members came here in automobiles from Milwaukee, which they left on July 4, he said.

About half the enrollment of the group are former service men and have affiliated themselves with various bonus camps. The rest are scattered about the city, a small group being in Alexandria, Hayssen said. He plans to bring them all together in one camp after a conference with Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. They have no arrangements for food except that various provision houses have promised help, according to Hayssen. His organization is conservative and anti-communistic, he added.

W. C. Babcock Honored For 47 Years Service

Wallace C. Babcock, clerk under the Treasury Department for 47 years and for the past 15 years chief examiner in the records division of the General Accounting Office, was presented with a purse of gold Wednesday night by the chief of the section and his associates and friends in the office.

The chief of section and friends in the money accounts branch, European Claims Unit of the Q. M. G. O., War Department, presented him with a billfold. A graduate of the Homer Academy, Mr. Babcock has been in Government service in Washington since 1884.

Berlin Banking Firms Merge.

DR. VAN H. MANNING TO BE BURIED TODAY

Services for Former Chief of Bureau of Mines to Be Held at Oak Hill.

Dr. Van H. Manning, former director of the Bureau of Mines, will be buried this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Oak Hill Cemetery following services in the cemetery chapel conducted by the Rev. Charles T. Warner of St. Alban's Parish.

Dr. Manning, who for many years resided in the Capital, died Wednesday night at his home in Forest Hills, Long Island. He was 72 years old.

He was born in Horn Lake, Miss. After being graduated from the University of Mississippi and the University of Pittsburgh, he served as a civil engineer with the U. S. Geological Survey from 1886 to 1910, when he became connected with the Bureau of Mines, of which he was director from 1915 until 1920.

From 1920 until 1924, he was director of research of the American Petroleum Institute. He also served as a consulting engineer for the Bureau of Mines. During the World War he established the chemical laboratories at American University.

Dr. Manning was a member of numerous societies, among them the Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Chemical Society, and the American Petroleum Institute. He was a member of the Cosmos Club and of the Engineers Club of New York.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emily Stevens Manning, and two sons, Van H. Manning, jr., and Stevens Manning.

Northern Chinese Reds, Unopposed, Take Town

Hongkong, China, July 14 (A.P.).—While the attention of the Cantonese army has been diverted to Communist disorders in the east, bandits and Chinese Communists in the north have renewed their activities and today they captured the town of Sinfeng.

In the skirmish government troops lost about 300 men. Reinforcements have been sent under Chan Chai-Tong, but he has only about 80,000 men against 300,000 of the enemy.

THE LAUSANNE BLUNDERS.

The new European consultative pact, beginning with an Anglo-French accord, is immediately the subject of total disagreement by its authors as to its meaning and scope. Premier Herriot assures France that it prevents Great Britain from making any debt adjustment with the United States without France's consent. Prime Minister MacDonald assures England that the pact has no bearing upon the American debt question. The sudden burst of affectionate accord is so ardent that it inflames the passions and threatens to break up the family of nations. Like the Irish patriots of old, Messrs. MacDonald and Herriot are "fighting like divils for conciliation." They intend to co-operate, if they have to destroy each other.

Domestic politics in each case accounts for the contradictory interpretations of the accord. M. Herriot is compelled to justify his stand in tentatively agreeing to relieve Germany of reparation payments. Accordingly he insists that the new entente cordiale with Great Britain prevents that government from obtaining special concessions from the United States, which is equivalent to stating that France, although amply able to pay the debt to America, will obtain reductions if Britain obtains them.

Mr. MacDonald, however, dare not admit that he has entered into an arrangement whereby Great Britain must abandon hope of concessions from the United States. The accord which he hastily signed at Lausanne as the last expedient to avert a breakdown is so ambiguous that he can insist with some plausibility that it deals exclusively with European affairs. Whether or not he can induce M. Herriot to accept that interpretation is another question. The French premier is apt to be overthrown if he can not show that the entente with Great Britain has solid value to France; and if it does give France some advantage, it will of course arouse the oposition of Britishers who are critical of Mr. MacDonald's management of foreign relations. Already these critics are asking whether the British dominions were consulted before the pact was made, or whether they are expected to accept any consequences that may flow from British engagements in continental politics.

President Hoover, following the initiative of Premier Herriot and Prime Minister MacDonald, does a little "clarifying" of his own, in a letter to Senator Borah. This communication is quite informal, but it serves all the purposes of a direct message to European governments. The President gives notice that if the Lausanne agreements should be interpreted to mean that debtor governments have bound themselves to present a united front to the United States on the debt question, he does not propose that the American people shall be pressed into any line of action or that American policies shall be in any way influenced by such a combination, either open or implied.

That is a clarification that ought to be easily understood in Paris and London. Whatever the governments may have signed at Lausanne—and apparently not all of the agreements have yet come to light—the attitude of the United States is unchanged. Each debtor government must plead its case separately if it should decide to ask for revision of its debt. Its own capacity to pay must be criterion of adjustment if adjustment should be necessary.

Open or secret, the agreements made in Europe are not operative upon the United States. The debtors still owe their debts.

The Anglo-French accord may become the subject of heated debate at Ottawa. The British dominions will wish to know where they stand. That is a matter which may bring grief to Prime Minister MacDonald. As for Premier Herriot, it may be imagined that President Hoover's letter to Senator Borah will be the subject of lively debate in Paris. The letter completely destroys the validity of the Anglo-French accord as M. Herriot interprets it. His statement that "the certainty of a concerted attitude is henceforth an acquired fact which will facilitate success in negotiations with Washington" is an assertion that is offensive to the United States.

The net results of the Lausanne conference are injurious to the cause of international confidence and good will.

NATIONAL DEFENSE SAVED.

Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives suffered another striking defeat when that body agreed to reinstate 2,000 Army officers who would have been eliminated under the War Department appropriation bill. Speaker Garner could not hold his colleagues in line in the attempt to cripple the national defense. In accord with many precedents during the present session, the House found itself in an untenable position and was forced to yield to the Senate.

This is the fourth serious defeat that the Democratic leaders have encountered in their attempts to weaken the national defense. Provisions for Citizens' Military Training Camps, for the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and the Reserve Officers' Camps were written into the bill over the vigorous protests of the House leaders. In spite of the party platform favoring adequate national defense, Speaker Garner and his cohorts have consistently fought adequate appropriations for that purpose, while voting to distribute billions through pork-barrel schemes. Democrats who uphold the national defense plank overruled their vice presidential candidate, who made a desperate fight to consolidate the Army and Navy and reduce their allowance by $100,000,000.

Secretary of War Hurley told the House military affairs committee that the national defense act could not be carried out if 2,000 officers were cut off. Gen. MacArthur, Chief of Staff, testified that this reduction would necessitate the writing of a new law, placing American national defense on a lower plane. The officer strength of the Army is already 2,000 below the number contemplated in the national defense law. If the Democratic program had been enacted, the nucleus around which any defense army must be built in event of war would have been reduced to about 71 per cent of the strength which Congress has said is the irreducible minimum required for national safety.

Can Gov. Roosevelt indorse this record of the Democratic House? It remains to be seen whether national defense will become an active political issue, but it is hardly to be supposed that Republican campaigners will neglect such a rich opportunity to embarrass those Democrats who demanded adequate national defense at Chicago. The fact that some Democrats went over to the Republican viewpoint at the last moment will not save Speaker Garner, candidate for Vice President, from the charge of scuttling the Democratic plank on national defense.

THE GREAT NONPARTISAN.

Gallant Hiram Johnson swept away the poison gas of partisanship with one blast of his bugle-horn when he paid tribute to Gov. Roosevelt's dramatic flight to the Chicago convention. As the lines of battle begin to tighten it is well for citizens to remember that all candidates are Americans, and that none of them is horned, cloven-hoofed, and swollen with treason to the state. Senator Johnson performs a public service when he recognizes the virtues of a political adversary. He is generous, too, in his attitude toward members of his own party, with whom he is sometimes compelled to disagree. Voters of all parties can well afford to take note of the nonpartisan equipoise of Senator Johnson in his references to the two presidential candidates. Perhaps this balance can best be illustrated by presenting Senator Johnson's opinions in parallel columns. His eulogy of Mr. Hoover was spoken some time ago, it is true, but time has no effect upon truth:

ON GOV. ROOSEVELT
(From a public statement July 5, 1931.)

There was something fine and gallant and exhilarating in Roosevelt's scrapping the old tradition and at once, when nominated, arranging to meet the Democratic convention.

The imaginative get a thrill from the Democratic candidate writing in a speeding airplane the most important speech of our day, and in his whole history.

What an improvement is this innovation over the old tradition, where a candidate sits like a sphinx for weeks searching out weasel words and ambiguous phrases, with duplex and doubtful meaning, that may be read in any fashion by any person or group!

May the new human manly method adopted by the Democratic candidate in its candor and forthrightness prevail in the coming campaign.

ON HERBERT HOOVER
(From Congressional Record)
June 28, 1917.

Peculiarly fitted for the task of food administrator is Herbert Hoover. He is not alone a most distinguished American. He is a distinguished world figure. He has already demonstrated transcendent ability as an administrator, and he has been striving for humanity with an altruism that challenges the admiration and affection of us all. No happier selection and none more competent could have been made. I happen to know intimately many of the men with whom he has surrounded himself, men of proven ability and character, men of wisdom and wide vision, and I feel that if this tremendous task can be at all performed it will be performed by Hoover and his associates.

While crabbed partisans indulge in vulgar abuse and political sphinxes hatch out weasel words, nonpartisan Hiram Johnson sees good in all men and all parties. The November election has no terrors for him, for he knows that the gallant and exhilarating Roosevelt or the transcendently able Hoover will be chosen. High above the miasma of personalities, and freed from the ambitions that once carked and corroded his soul, the Sage of the Sunset thrusts weasels, sphinxes and ambiguous demons under his feet. Few are those who can climb to Hiram's height, but all who see can hail him there, and wish that they, too, could feed on honey-dew and drink the milk of Paradise.

TRAFFIC TO MOUNT VERNON.

Lieut. Col. Grant, director of public buildings and public parks, is deliberating on the applications of several bus companies to furnish transportation service over the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway. Considerable opposition to bus traffic on this beautiful boulevard has developed, much of which is based on sentimental grounds. Obviously the problem must be solved from the practical viewpoint.

In the first place, residents in the vicinity of the highway are entitled to transportation service. Especially, it appears, is there need for bus service between Alexandria and Mount Vernon. This question should be decided on the basis of transportation needs, while bearing in mind the memorial character of the highway.

In the second place, this scenic boulevard, which has already become one of the most interesting and attractive drives in the vicinity of the National Capital, must not be closed to tourists. There seems to be no reason why the tourist who comes to Washington in his private car should be permitted to use the memorial highway while tourists who must travel to Mount Vernon by bus are denied that privilege. Reasonable provision for sightseeing buses on the new boulevard would seem to be essential to avoid discrimination against an important class of travelers.

The Mount Vernon Memorial Highway can not be opened to unlimited bus traffic. The service allowed over this road should be under rigid control and strictly limited. With those precautions, the chief arguments against use of this scenic route by buses seem to be eliminated. The highway has special facilities for loading and releasing bus passengers. Traffic would not be unduly delayed by the operation of buses of reasonable size to accommodate tourists and to furnish the service necessary for residents of the vicinity.

But the veterans can show that it was Congress that taught them to go around in circles.

The great American hog is rooting his way out of the depression; eggs are going up, and butter is stronger. It's politics that keeps this country down.

THE SHOE KING OF ZLIN

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Thomas Bata, the Czechoslovakian shoe magnate, killed in an airplane crash last Tuesday while flying low over one of his own factories, was born in the Moravian village of Zlin and spent all but a little of his life in his native land, and yet as a human type he curiously resembled those hard-fisted, at-once acquisitive and creative pioneers whom we like to think of as peculiarly "American."

He began as the son of a cobbler and he ended as one of the world's big industrialists, with distributing agencies in many foreign countries and a factory site in far-away Calcutta intended to put the millions of barefoot Indians into canvas shoes. It was characteristic of him that his employes were never spoken of as "employes," but as "working partners," and that they shared in the concern's profits while being forbidden to join the Labor party or trades unions.

Quite naturally, he was often nicknamed the "Czechoslovakian Henry Ford." He built his own fortune and he served the public through the mass manufacture of good, low-priced footgear of all sorts. He and some of his workmen came to this country in 1904 and worked in the New England shoe factories. Bata studied American, as well as British and German, methods and took American shoe machinery back with him to Czechoslovakia. The combination of American machines and the cheap living costs of what was then a part of Austro-Hungary was irresistible.

The village of Zlin became a city of 30,000 people, nearly all of whom were dependent in one way or another on the Bata factory. The big Bata retail store in Prague was one of that interesting old town's modern showplaces. A reception clerk met you at the front entrance and asked what you were looking for. If you replied, "A pair of low tan shoes," he at once gave you the number and location of the department where your particular variety of footgear was kept. Everything had its department, with the number of that department hanging over it in plain sight, so that if you were looking for a pair of heavy hiking boots you didn't waste any time wandering into the pavilion where they sold women's light, woven sandals. This sort of efficiency was both useful and amusing, and the prices were astonishingly low. Many a "things-they-do-better-abroad" argument, stirring up its whole complex of disputes on the theoretical and practical aspects of a protective tariff and free trade, has been started by some returned American tripper who happened to drop into Bata's and pick up for $3 a pair of satisfactory shoes for which he would have had to pay two or three times as much at home.

The war, of course, brought Bata a wonderful slant of wind, just as some of the recent high tariffs cut off large corners from his market. He ran a fleet of airplanes in the interests of his business, and last year, with some of his lieutenants, he flew to Africa, Asia Minor and the British and Dutch East Indies, scouting for more business. He was making a hurried flight to Switzerland when he met his untimely end.

He asked the pilot to fly low so that he might take a look at some of the new factory buildings. Possibly the airplane may have struck a chimney or something hidden in the thick mist. As an additional touch of irony, the cabin, in which the shoe king usually rode, was unharmed.

POST HASTE.

Geneva should employ the Lausanne experts who scrapped "open covenants, openly arrived at," 100 per cent.

Sir John Simon can't compete with Premier Herriot as an interpreter.

Harmony and expeditious action at Lausanne are now explained as one scrap of paper, one gents' agreement and one biparty pact, all aimed at Uncle Sam.

A permanent international conference sitting somewhere would save time and traveling expenses and probably be equally useless.

An economic session at which the U. S. declined to talk war debts with European nations would be as popular as an ice cream social at the North Pole.

Prime Minister MacDonald will rest up from the strenuous efforts of negotiating that three-way agreement at Lausanne and prepare for next week's doings at Geneva, Dublin, Ottawa and Bombay.

Coney Island's biggest fireworks display may have been just a plan to help the building trade.

Miss Earhart says her transcontinental hop was more trying than her ocean flight. But she would have found no Columbus in mid-Atlantic if she had been obliged to land for repairs.

Now let's apportion the bonus boys equally among congressmen and let them take them home as pro and con souvenirs.

In normal times a presidential campaign is enough to unsettle business; this year there are so many other factors that politics is a minor consideration.

Speaker Garner will fish for three weeks before he becomes speaker for the Vice Presidency. He will try to forget the House record.

The secret voyage of the Myth under the searchlights is more successful than seemed possible. The newspaper sleuths were not permitted to discover whether that steak was a porterhouse or sirloin.

We may have to call in the alienists to determine whether Paris is more expert than London at reading between the lines, or just franker.

The success of the bicameral legislation conference on Capitol Hill suggests the advisability of limiting Senate memberships to three and the House to seven.

Now, what about the former Republicans who are still infringing on the copyright?

What! Congress, must you go? Well, never mind your hat.

THE RAILROAD PROBLEM.

How intimately the welfare of the railroads is bound up with the financial stability of the Nation is demonstrated, says Charles Frederick Carter in Current History, by the figures showing the extent to which our money has been put into railroad securities. Directly and indirectly, through bank deposits and life insurance policies, savings are invested to a greater extent in railway securities than in any other, except United States Government bonds. Of the total of $10,703,000,000 in railroad bonds outstanding at the end of 1931, approximately $3,000,000,000 were held by life insurance companies as a part of assets protecting 50,000,000 policy holders. Mutual savings banks, with 13,000,000 depositors, held $1,700,000,000; member banks of the Federal Reserve System, $987,000,000; nonmember banks, $300,000,000; trust companies, fire and casualty insurance companies, charitable and other organizations approximately $1,500,000,000. No wonder that the question of relieving the railroads of their present handicaps becomes a matter of deep concern to the whole community."

If Pork and Beans Comprise the Menu, You Take Pork or Beans or Do Without.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

FEW "heart-throb" letters are worth printing, but here is one so obviously sincere and so unique in its revelations that it deserves sympathetic reading and serious study:

"You writers who have the public eye are forever telling us how to solve our problems. Why don't you tell us how to solve the one that matters most?

"I am frankly bitter against life and the whole scheme of our social system. We spend billions of money and heaven knows how much energy to increase human happiness and then make an infernal mess of things by destroying the very foundation of joy and contentment.

"Our silly social barriers, inherited from ancestors who thought sex an invention of the devil, deny happiness to all but the young.

"Take my case as an example. At 42 I am in the prime of life, normal in all ways and not repulsive in appearance. I am moderately rich and friendly with people of all classes. Many people envy me.

"Yet I am the most miserable of men. I have no children. My wife gets her happiness out of her clubs and other social activities and shares nothing with me except my income.

"No man except a young one or a crank can be happy without the understanding love and companionship of a good woman. I enjoy the things other men do, but the only true happiness I have ever known came from the sympathetic comradeship of a few women.

"I might bribe my wife to turn me loose, but what good would that do? I have no chance to win another woman's love now, and I wouldn't have at my age if I were free.

"No wonder so many men marry their stenographers and nurses. They have no chance to meet anybody else, except through some grafting matrimonial bureau patronized by riffraff and idiots.

"I don't ask for youth or for beauty above the average. I see thousands of women on the street, any one of which might prove a wonderful companion, and I'll wager that 90 per cent of the unmarried ones are in the same fix I am—vainly wishing for the right comrade. They might as well be in China so far as my chance of making friends is concerned.

"I envy the Russians. Men and women working together have a chance to develop comradeships. Any two people who are congenial will fall for another if they are thrown together, but over here we have no chance to contact more than a dozen in the span of a lifetime.

"We are animals and there is no happiness for us except in normal sex relationships. When custom takes away our right to mingle freely in search of congenial comrades, it dooms millions of both sexes to frustrated lives of starved and lonely misery."

Under the terms of this (Glass-Borah) amendment any 3½ per cent Government bonds up to $1,000,000,000 total could be used by banks as security for the issue of new paper currency. That the whole amount would be so used we cannot be sure; from 6 per cent on the new currency loaned out and 3½ per cent return on the bonds the banks would be getting around 9 per cent on their investment, but skeptics have been doubting whether you can put out paper money faster than banking customers care to take it.

Pennsylvania, in 1915, before American participation in the World War, spent about $4.25 on government for each man, woman and child in the Commonwealth. In 1932 the appropriations aggregate nearer $10 per capita. In 1915 the State Treasurer paid out about $35,000,000. This year the Legislature set aside $96,000,000 for the State government to disburse.

The splurge of State spending began in 1918, when the total bonded debt of Pennsylvania was $650,000. It is now close to $90,000,000.

The more we observe our smiling governor in his new role as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, the better balanced the Democratic ticket seems to us. Garner was the right man, after all.

While Speaker Garner dreams happily of a million marble postoffices, the governor trims his trillions of seedlings.

Every voter who figures the old-fashioned way will hope that the governor and the Speaker will be permitted to keep on smiling and will never be called upon to cut public expenses or balance national budgets or do any other of the chores—the dishwashing of life, so to speak—which, unfortunately, must be done, and done accurately, by an administration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Democrats to Have Tough Sledding Caused by Their Own Actions in the Next Three Months.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It's a safe guess the Democrats will hang themselves higher than Haman in the next three months. Anybody who saw the puny attempts at ten acres of timber culture to secure 160 acres of Government land in the early days of the West should know that Roosevelt's reforestation scheme will be the laughing stock of Western farmers when they begin to discuss it as a means of relief. Garner has made three bad breaks—pork, loans by the Reconstruction Corporation to individuals, and finally dropping from the position of umpire as Speaker to join in the sport of getting Hoover.

The 5,000 or more country bankers who have been saved from a fearful nightmare of perdition by the Reconstruction Corporation will take a hand in the discussion. Just as soon as the country has had time to get its breath the bankers will resume this proper function of making loans to individuals. Anybody cognizant of the blood sweating the bankers have endured can not blame them for doing a little hoarding, furthermore there is no particular need of a lot of wild loans to individual speculators just now. If this country could get a good night's sleep it would wake up refreshed.

Unexpected Stop Sign and Active Constable Catch Motorists Near Morgantown.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please warn the public of a stop sign in southern Maryland at Wayside, about 4 miles north of Morgantown, at the junction of the Rock Point and Morgantown highways.

Two other motorists and I were arrested in rapid-fire order for passing a stop sign at this point about 5:30 Sunday evening, July 10. The constable who made the arrest took us down the road to the residence of W. H. Hickey, justice of the peace, who fined us from $7.35 to $8.05 each.

The point has all the potentialities of the old-time speed trap. The stop sign is there all right, but it fails to register, because it is the only stop sign on the entire 45 miles of highway from the District line to Morgantown.

At Substation H of the Maryland States Police, near La Plata, we were informed that the State police have had no hand in making arrests at the point mentioned and that it is purely a county matter.

Dan O'Brien, Now in Washington, Is Hereditary King of Ireland.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Dan O'Brien, internationally known as "King of the Hobos," claims the name of Kelly is just "Kelly," and not "O'Kelly," as Benedict Fitzpatrick in the New York Times, copied in The Washington Post, would have us believe.

The three original Irish names, "King Dan" avers, were O'Brien, Murphy and Power. The O'Briens were not only the royal bloods of Munster, but were the Kings of all Ireland.

The real aristocracy of the island is not, as Swift contended, "to be found on the coal quays of Dublin." Rather, it was to be found in historic Carrick-on-Suir.

If De Valera and Cosgrave do not steer the land from the clutches of his majesty King George, Dan O'Brien will be obliged to hobo it over and assume, by royal decree, his obligations to his loyal and patriotic subjects, the Irish race.

"Dan," as he is affectionately known in Carrick-on-Suir, at present is sleeping "on the roof" in a modest hotel in Washington.

Why Not Have Old-Fashioned Home Training to Promote Temperance?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Whether this country has prohibition or not let us remember that the main objective is less drinking. It is disgusting enough to see men under the influence of liquor, but when it comes to women and high school youngsters it is time to call a halt.

Is this country really on a toboggan slide? And does it expect to end like Greece and Rome—by an ignominious decline through internal corruption and decay?

As we cannot "legislate" people into goodness and decency, why not try some of the old-fashioned training in home and school? It might work. And as actions speak louder than words, don't let any father expect to have a sober son if he himself stocks up the cellar.

EXAGGERATION.

"I have lost everything," he said,
And sat him down to sigh.
I understood his look of dread,
His sorrow-stricken eye.
I waited through his weeping spell
Then asked him: "Are your children well?"

"And did you kiss your wife good-by
This morning as you left?
'Lost everything!' you faintly cry
Of them are you bereft?
Did you not see the green trees sway
Above you in the breeze today?

"What is it time has swept away
And leaves you now so sad?
Some bright coins in a happier day
You merely thought you had;
Figures on paper, good to boast,
Which bank accountants daily post.

"And if perchance they write in red
Or if the ink be black,
The same sun glistens overhead,
July brings roses back
At home for you the children wait,

NORDIC TRIPS IN 1362 IN AMERICA UPHELD

G. W. U. Class Also Hears of Economic Imperialism in Latin Countries.

One hundred and thirty years before the voyage of Columbus, Scandinavian explorers may have penetrated the continent of North America as far as Minnesota, Dr. Mary W. Williams, professor of history in Goucher College, said in her lecture yesterday before the Hispanic American Conference at George Washington University.

She told of the discovery, near Kensington, Minn., in 1898, of a stone bearing inscriptions which indicated that in 1362 a party of 22 Norwegians and 8 Swedes had been in that area. At the time of its discovery by a Minnesota farmer scholars pronounced the Kensington stone a fraud, and for many years it was condemned to obscurity, serving as a doorstep for the farmer's granary. But years of study devoted to the inscriptions since that time have resulted in the conviction on the part of many scholars that they are authentic and that "it would take more credulity to believe them fraudulent than to believe them genuine," she explained.

"Land to the West."

Recalling almost forgotten expeditions to the Western World which were made centuries before the voyage of Columbus, Dr. Williams said that in considering his exploit the fact is often neglected that when he started out the discoverer had a fairly clear-cut idea of "land to the west."

Columbus' insistence that the lands discovered by him were the Indies lost him the honor of having the continents named for him, the lecturer said. The first indication that these lands in reality constituted a new world was given in a report by a later explorer, Amerigo Vespucci, which came into the hands of a geographer who, in consequence, applied to the Western world the name by which it is known today.

Economic Imperialism.

The conference also was addressed today by Charles D. Kepner, jr., who pointed out some aspects of the operation of great American fruit companies in Central and South America "which are apt to be neglected by those who sing their praises. Unrestrained by competition, and dealing with weak governments, these companies have taken complete control of every phase of life in the countries where they operate, proceeding often without the sanction of the government," he asserted.

While these companies have done some good in the construction of railroads, docks, health work, &c., they exercise an economic imperialism, directing everything toward their own profit, the speaker declared.

"While such conditions are inevitable under the capitalistic system, in the United States the unrestricted profit motive is controlled by competition and by some governmental regulation," he said.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

Ambassador Claudel Celebrates French Holiday.

AT A DINNER GIVEN LAST evening by the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, in celebration of the French national holiday, guests were the Ambassador of Italy, Nobile Giacomo de Martino; the Ambassador of Germany, Herr Friedrich von Prittwitz und Gaffron; the Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay; the Ambassador of Belgium, Mr. Paul May, and the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, and members of the embassy staff.

Today the ambassador will entertain at luncheon for the members of the French teams on their way to California to participate in the Olympic games.

The Ambassador of Italy entertained at luncheon on Wednesday, for Commendatore Cesare Grattarola, Olympic commissioner, and Admiral di Sambuy. That same afternoon there was an informal reception at the embassy for the members of the Italian Olympic games.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, and the Ambassador of France, Mr. Paul Claudel, were the guests of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by the Washington Kiwanis Club aboard the U. S. frigate Constitution. Others in the party were Rear Admiral Henry Varnum Butler, commandant of the Navy Yard, and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Representative and Mrs. Henry Winfield Watson will leave Washington after the adjournment of Congress and will motor to Coberg, Canada, for a short stay. They will then go to their home at Langhorne, Pa., to pass the remainder of the summer.

Representative and Mrs. Joseph W. Byrns will leave their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel next week for their summer home in Tennessee.

Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson and Mrs. Brownson celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon in Litchfield, Conn., where their daughter, Mrs. Hussey, wife of Rear Admiral Charles L. Hussey, gave an informal reception in her home.

Among those present were their other daughter, Mrs. Hart, her husband, Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, and their five children; also another grandchild, Mrs. Caroline Brownson Baxter, of Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. Archibald L. Parsons, wife of Rear Admiral Parsons, U. S. N., and her daughter, Miss Marie C. Parsons, of the Wardman Park Hotel, are at Hotel del Coronado, Coronado Beach, Calif.

The Commissioner General of Immigration and Mrs. Harry E. Hull left yesterday morning on an extended motor trip through the Middle West and into Canada. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Hull was Mrs. Gertrude Albert, sister of Mrs. Hull, and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Albert. The return trip will be made by way of the Canadian border to enable Mr. Hull to visit numerous immigration stations there. The party expects to return the first of August.

The Attache of the Japanese Embassy, Mr. Fumio Miura, will leave Washington the last of the month for Brazil, where he has been transferred. He has been private secretary to the ambassador and will be succeeded by Mr. Kenji Nakauchi, attache of the embassy.

Miss Mary Spinks, subdebutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Spinks, is spending the week at West Point as the guest of Col. and Mrs. E. P. Denson. Miss Spinks will stop in Philadelphia for a short visit on her return trip to Washington.

Miss Elizabeth Howry and Miss Mary Howry have returned to their home in Georgetown after an absence of several weeks. The former spent some time in Chicago, where she attended the Democratic convention, and Miss Mary Howry has been visiting in Pittsburgh. Miss Elizabeth Howry joined her there and together they motored to Washington.

Mrs. Loose at Gloucester Entertaining on Yacht.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, who is at her summer home at Gloucester, Mass., has chartered a yacht for the summer and is entertaining groups of friends for weekly visits, during which they spend some time cruising around the North Shore. Next Friday Maj. and Mrs. Parker West will leave for Gloucester to spend a week with Mrs. Loose.

Mrs. Reinald Werrenrath, wife of the concert singer, will come to Washington on July 26 to pass some time with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shipp. Mrs. Werrenrath is at present at her summer home at Chazy, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Shipp are overseeing the renovation of the old house they have recently purchased, which is a part of the old Gunston Hall estate, on the Potomac River, and expect to spend much time there during the late summer and early fall.

Mr. Archibald C. V. Welles will leave Washington tomorrow for a motor trip to West Virginia, where he will spend several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Glass at their country home in the mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Gatley entertained at dinner last evening at the Chevy Chase Club.

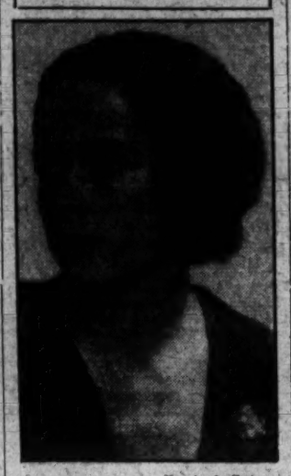
Mrs. Louis S. Greene, wife of Dr. Greene, and her daughter, Miss Anne Carter Greene, are established at their summer home in New Hampshire for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Phillips, jr., have returned to their residence in Georgetown, following a trip to Paducah, Ky., where they were guests of the former's parents.

Mr. Edgar H. Funk is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Henry Garnett Reamy, at her residence near Oak Grove, Va. Mrs. Reamy also has as her guest Mr. Ben C. Stevens.

Dr. and Mrs. James G. Haskell, of Wardman Park Hotel, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Graves, have returned to their apartment after spending two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Graves in Ventnor, N. J.

Leaving for West



Harris & Ewing.

MRS. W. MYRON DILLON, wife of Lieut. Dillon, U. S. N., who is now in Petersburg, Va., and will leave next week for the West Coast to attend the Olympic Games and to join Lieut. Dillon, recently assigned to duty with the fleet.

Mrs. Blodgett to Depart For Michigan Home.

Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett will leave today for her summer home at Mackinac, Mich., where she will be joined by her sisters, Mrs. Charles G. Matthews and Mrs. Edward P. Porcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Henry Peck, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Blodgett, who have been here for several weeks, will also go to Mackinac for part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Matthews, are already established at their adjoining estate at Mackinac with their children, and Mr. and Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard, another son-in-law and daughter, will join the family later for a month. Mr. and Mrs. Gaillard are remaining for the present at their suburban home in Rock Creek Park, where they are building a pool in the gardens.

Mrs. William P. Wilmoth, of Wardman Park Hotel, left yesterday morning for New York, where she will spend a few days, later joining her sister in the Adirondacks for a month's visit before returning to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Albers, of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending a week at the Shoreham. On their return home they will spend a few days in Baltimore.

Miss Shepherd Wed To Maj. W. H. Haislip.

The marriage of Miss Alice Jennings Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Shepherd, of Covington, Va., to Maj. Wade Hampton Haislip, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Drake Haislip, of Staunton, Va., took place at noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed in the chapel at West Point, N. Y., with the chaplain of the Military Academy, the Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolving, officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ensemble of sheer white crepe with accessories of white, and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. William O. Payne, of Columbus, Ohio, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a frock of French blue crepe with a corsage of Ophelia roses. Mr. Richard A. Haislip, of Caldwell, N. J., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Maj. and Mrs. Haislip left later by motor for a wedding trip through the Adirondacks and Canada. They will be at home after August 15, at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., where Maj. Haislip will be an instructor in the Command and General Staff School.

Miss Catina N. Nicholson has just arrived from Corinth, Greece, with her brother, Mr. Soterios Nicholson, member of the legal profession of the National Capital. Miss Nicholson will remain during her visit to this country with her brother and Mrs. Nicholson in their home at Chevy Chase, Md.

Mrs. Bertha M. Robbins, of Washington, secretary of the National Education Association, sailed yesterday from New York on the President Monroe on a round-the-world cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Ardesser, jr., have returned from their wedding trip and are residing at 5211 Connecticut avenue. Mrs. Ardesser was formerly Miss Marie Elizabeth Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Murphy, of Cleveland, Ohio. Their wedding took place on June 18.

Several wives of prominent Republican leaders of the Senate have accepted invitations to serve as patronesses at the card and garden party to be held next Tuesday by the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia at the Virginia estate of Mrs. Harley P. Wilson, Hollin Hall, near Alexandria.

A partial list of the patronesses announced yesterday by the committee in charge of the party includes Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. Reed Smoot, wife of the senator from Utah; Mrs. James E. Watson, wife of the Republican floor leader and senator from Indiana; Mrs. Porter Dale, wife of the senator from Vermont; Mrs. David A. Reed, wife of the senator from Pennsylvania; Mrs. Charles L. McNary, wife of the senator from Oregon.

Mrs. Walter Newton, Mrs. Theodore G. Joslin, Mrs. French Strother, Mrs. Wayland Magee, Mrs. Harold Lafount, Mrs. David Burnet, Mrs. Paul Bestor, Mrs. Edward Keys, Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman, Mrs. Ariel Cardon, Mrs. Samual J. Prescott.

Mrs. Lutz Wahl, wife of Brig. Gen. Wahl, U. S. A., and Mrs. Ralph Payne Craft, wife of Capt. Craft, U. S. N., have chosen their assistants for the refreshment booths at the Tennis Day Fete at the Army and Navy Country Club tomorrow. The proceeds of the sales will be equally divided between the Army and Navy relief societies.

Assisting Mrs. Wahl will be Mrs. J. F. Chamberlain, Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, jr., Miss Elizabeth Barrett, Miss Sally Pearson, Miss Atlee Wirgman, Miss Laura Field, and Miss Fanella Casteneda. With Mrs. Craft will be Miss Beatrice Craft, Mrs. Dallas Laizure, Miss Helen Gudebrod, Miss Virginia Laizure, Miss Mary Anne Jensen, Miss Ellen Tizer, Miss Fay Sumner, and Miss Edith Hamilton.

Pan-American Atmosphere At Belmont House Sunday.

A distinctly Pan-American note will be struck at the garden tea on Sunday afternoon, at National Women's Party Headquarters, Alva Belmont House, at 144 B street northeast. The guest speaker of the afternoon will be Don Manuel Gonzalez Z., charge d'affaires of Costa Rica and distinguished author, who will discuss The Progress of Women in Costa Rica. Other guests of honor will include Senora de Alfaro, Senora de Sacasa, Senora de Ynsfran, Senora de Diez de Medina, the Senoritas Cecilia, Rebeca, and Abigail Alfaro, and Senorita Hortensia Medina.

Muna Lee de Munoz Marin will introduce Senor Gonzalez, and hostesses will include Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, national chairman of the Woman's Party; Mrs. Paul Myron Linebarger, district chairman; Mrs. Andrew Stewart, Mrs. Edgar Meritt, and the Misses Mabel Van Dyke, Margaret Luers, and Angelina Carabelli.

The Friday contract study section of the Women's City Club is arranging a luncheon for today, when Mrs. Metta R. Cole and Miss Virginia S. Benjamin will present the awards won by them in the recent World Olympic to the club. Mrs. William Lee Corbin, representing the president, Miss Alice M. Heaven, will receive the trophies, which will be kept in the card room of the clubhouse.

Mrs. J. K. Freiot, chairman of the section, will preside at the luncheon, which will be followed by bridge. Others planning to attend are Mrs. Lawrence Becker, Mrs. Laura A. Bradley, Miss Myrtle L. Bunn, Mrs. C. L. Butler, Mrs. C. H. Curl, Miss Mary A. Mason, Mrs. L. H. Mattingly, Mrs. Garfett Mattingly, Mrs. Philip B. Matz, Mrs. Gladys B. Middlemiss, Mrs. William F. Mutchler, Mrs. A. B. Omwake, Mrs. Elma R. Saul, Mrs. W. G. Sears, Mrs. S. J. Shoemaker, Mrs. Corbin Thompson, Mrs. E. W. Van Metre, Mrs. Mabel L. Whitmarsh, Mrs. William H. Whitney, Mrs. Jean Cole Whittaker, Mrs. Charles Willcox and Mrs. Dixie T. Wright.

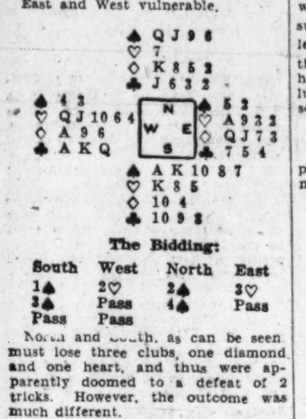
THE WINNING REVOKE.

An intentional revoke at the Bridge table is an unpardonable breach of the ethics of the game. Nor may a player revoke a second time to conceal a previous revoke. However, occasionally, a player fails to follow suit unconsciously, even though he holds several cards of the suit led. Some working of the inner mind prevents him from realizing what he is doing.

An amusing incident, illustrating that point, occurred recently in a Rubber Bridge game in Cleveland, and the story is told by Mr. Carl T. Robertson, associate editor of the Plain Dealer, who witnessed the game.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2♡	2♠	3♡
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

North and South, as can be seen, must lose three clubs, one diamond and one heart, and thus were apparently doomed to a defeat of 2 tricks. However, the outcome was much different.

The King of clubs was led, and when it held the trick, West followed with the club Queen, which South, studying the method of playing his hand, ruffed. A small spade was then led and won in the Dummy, and the singleton heart led, upon which East played the Ace. Unwilling to make the King of diamonds good, East decided that he would again force the Declarer, and led his last club. South again trumped, then drew the remaining adverse trumps, led a small card to the diamond King, upon which West refused to play the Ace, wishing to give the Declarer a guess, but the King went up anyway and held the trick.

The Knave of clubs was now played from Dummy and South followed suit. He then entered his hand with a trump and led another club. Now East and West were conceded a trick in diamonds, and the score was jotted down.

This formality completed, Mr. Robertson remarked to the Declarer: "That was a remarkably played hand, 'Mr. Blank.'"

"I thought myself I played it very well," was the complacent response, and probably to this day neither East, West nor South knows just exactly the manner in which the contract was made.

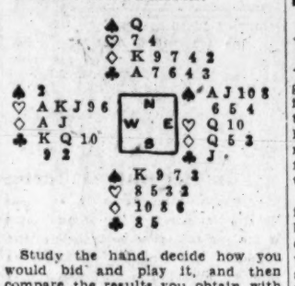
TODAY'S POINTER.

Few intentional revokes are made at the Contract table. A player who would intentionally fail to follow suit when holding a card of the suit led should be ostracized, as the practice is a violation of ethics, and a high standard of ethics is an absolute essential in the greatest of all social recreations.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

The side back decolletage, the tightly wrap-around skirt and fringed sash ends for an unusual evening gown of black crepe. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, July 14.—We have said a hundred times, or maybe a million by now, that the greatest charm of Parisian dresses lies in the little details that lend the final touch of beauty. Anyway, no matter how many times we have said it, it rests equally true. Let me describe for you today, at random, a few such touches!

A blouse of crepe de chine had the front and sleeves in one color and the back in another. But its real chic came from a set-in "shirt front" of white linen, with tiny pearl buttons, and a linen collar cut along the edge in a square "toothed" effect.

A dress of black crepe satin had an inset gilet of triangular shape set in, which was of pale rose color with crossing lines of gold. This same material was used for triangles set into the sleeves, the point at the elbow and the wide part at the wrist, the whole shirred in low on the wrist.

An evening gown of rosewood crepe georgette was given a bit of added chic by a long, narrow scarf of ecru lace, draped loosely about the throat.

And a dress of black crepe satin had an incrusted gilet, U-shaped, of pale rose crepe georgette, incrusted in vertical bands. The collar was of the same rose material, but double, the one on top slightly smaller than that beneath.

Oh, dearie me—and me and my designs! Yes, I thought I couldn't live another minit—what with the most swellegent premieres premiering all over the place here in Hollywood—and me having to be one of the shem—celebrities. So-o-o-o, I just up and ate the wolf for dinner that I had spent all summer shoooooing away from the door, and designed myself a new evening gown!

This one simply ties you, my deah. 'Scuse me, it tied me—in the pocketbook as well as the figure. But the ties are most effective, tying at the side back and simply keeping the dress on, with the on in capitals. Then the very very side decolletage hasn't the least chance of gaping, you see. And the ties are fringed, which gives me muchly needed long lines—and something nonchalant to do with my hands, since I don't smoke. And the skirt is entirely wrap-around—which gives an unbelievable slimness to the skirt—and the wearer.

I chose black gloves and bag with silver and midnight blue paillettes.

* * * *

Time to send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make a beach hat, a beach bag and a beach suit. You can make them while on your vacation, you know—and wear them for a change. They cost so little, made as we tell you how to make them in this week's leaflet.

Au Revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Expert Gives a Few Simple Sunburn Remedies.

Whether you plan to be at home, seashore, mountain resort this summer or merely expect to picnic out of doors occasionally, it is a good plan to have a sunburn remedy at hand. If you are to be in a spot that is miles from town be sure to have a soothing preparation with you. Some skins are so sensitive that a single day, or even an hour or two in the sun, and a burn sneaks up somehow. It may seem innocent and slight at first and suddenly start smarting and make you miserable.

A simple lotion made of one part of limewater and two parts of olive oil can offer relief to a red and irritated skin. It may be used every day until the irritation is allayed.

Or, if you have limewater and linseed oil at hand, a mixture of half and half makes a good, soothing preparation. Apply it gently over the irritated areas. If the skin is badly burned the pores will gratefully and quickly drink it in. As it is absorbed, supply another coating. You might apply at bedtime and give the skin several minutes to take in the thick unguent, then ever so gently wipe off with a tissue the remaining layer so that the bed linens will not be soiled.

There's a whitish lotion that your druggist will make up for you known as calamile lotion which is soothing to sensitive skins. It is to be shaken thoroughly before using and applied on a pad of cotton several times a day. It dries quickly and does not soil garments or bed linens.

A ready-prepared boric acid salve can also be obtained at the drug store and this is very healing, but it does leave a discolored stain.

Still another lotion that many people find soothing to the thin, delicate type of skin may be made by mixing 1 ounce of witch hazel, 1 ounce of almond oil, 3 ounces of rose water and 1 dram of boric acid. Your druggist can mix these for you easily (perhaps without extra charge for the mixing). The lotion should be shaken well before using and may be applied with a pad of absorbent cotton several times a day.

Don't Use Soap on Sunburned Skin.

It seems to me that everyone has had the experience of a burn that seemed slight at first and then proved extremely irritating, particularly so after a soap and water washing. The fiery skin seems thirsty, is in fact, but don't give it water. Oil or cream is the right diet for it. And for cleansing purposes the cream cleanser that liquefies is ideal.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

If July 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 9:40 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:05 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

Fate will be in a meddlesome mood on July 15 and will rob you of your laurels at the moment of success. For ordinary business conditions are not favorable. Less than the usual hazards for most speculative ventures. Unexpected travel and important news through letters.

The child born on this July 15 will be far from a brilliant student, nature and will not be outwardly affectionate. When moved it will be defiant to its own hurt, and it will hang stubbornly on to its own ideas. A good education would not be wasted upon it, as it will have a good mind and will be ambitious enough to make good use of any specialized training.

Born on July 15, you have a very restful nature and have so much kindliness and tact that you are seldom at actual "outs" with anybody. You may be accused of having kissed the blarney stone, but there are few people who dislike your flattering tongue.

If you be a woman, you need a man's protection and an object of worship and devotion. You would not perish if hoisted by your own petard, but you were not meant to play any role outside the home. If thrown into the competitive business world, your pliable and sensitive nature will become spoiled and somewhat hardened. It would be a pity for you to become married to a job instead of a man. You possess all the graceful charms essential to a charming hostess or ideal home maker.

You could never make idleness seem the happy life and will always have active interests. No matter what your physical attractions may be you have too much personality to ever be thought plain—your beauty will be more than skin deep. You have a natural facility for languages and a real love for good music. You do not scoff at pungent nonsense and are not afraid to throw aside your dignity. Children love you, and your life will be enriched by your friendships.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ESCAPING DELIRIUM.

If a man has delirium tremens, or is delirious from any other cause, Dr. Donald Gregg thinks he should not have medicines to quiet him. Occasionally a delirious patient will be benefited by the use of such drugs, but these cases are the exceptions. The average patient will be made worse by the use of either mechanical or drug restraint, or the two in combination. The possibility that the same conclusions may hold as to convulsions in children and heat convulsions is worthy of consideration.

Seventeen years ago Dr. Gregg reported on the treatment of delirium tremens in five large city hospitals. The investigation, so far as it went, showed that it was customary to restrain delirious patients with sedatives; and, whether through coincidence or cause and effect, the death rate was high.

Dr. Gregg had noticed that animals and persons who were being mechanically restrained struggled until they were exhausted. If the basic disorder were serious, the extra strain of the violent exertion used up the balance of the subject's vitality and pushed him across the line that separated life and death. This conclusion seemed to extend to include those who were restrained by the use of sedative drugs.

At any rate, he reduced their use to a minimum. Meanwhile, in the psychopathic hospital, restraint had been done away with and the use of sedatives had been reduced. Another treatment had been instituted and all the cases of delirium were getting well. This method has been kept up for more than seventeen years.

In the first place, hydrotherapy is used. The various kinds of baths and packs are employed. The second step consists in giving cathartics and enemas. The third is based on the theory that many of the symptoms are due to acidosis. The alcoholic who gets delirium tremens generally tells the physician that he has eaten but little for several days. If the physician analyzes the odors when he whiffs the patient's breath he can generally get the sweetish smell of acidosis along with the whisky breath. Dr. Gregg thinks the drug hunger of opium addiction is also due to acidosis. Therefore, he gives some alkali freely. The one he uses is citrocarbonate. He also gives some sugar and, if the stomach tolerates that, some other food is given along with the sugar.

In this connection it is well to recall a recent report to a scientific convention in which proof was offered that in drug hunger the condition was not one of acidosis, but a change in the degree of fluidity of the tissue cells. The scientists reporting advocated sodium rhodanate and sodium thiocyanate instead of alkalies.

If the use of alkalies in the treatment of delirium is new, and if there are those who think that the above mentioned drugs are better, the same can not be said for the policy of feeding. Every periodic drinker knows that when he is on a bat he must keep eating or the monkeys will get him. When he undertakes to sober up he begins by drinking milk, clam or tomato juice, or munching some sugar or chocolate. If he can get his stomach to stand it he hopes to pull out before the menagerie moves in.

Nor is there novelty in the use of baths. In 1856 a physician studying medicine in Europe wrote his uncle, another physician, about what he saw in Florence: "The curative methods used in treating delirious cases in the lunatic asylums are curious. They commence with baths. From the tepid plunge they mount to the cold douche given through a nozzle several inches in diameter."

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

VARYING FLAVORS, SOUP TO SALAD.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Very inexpensive seasonings, skillfully used, will give character and interest to the plainest meal, and involve but little extra trouble for the cook. Assuming that salt, pepper, and butter or other fat "to taste" are essential in most meat and vegetable dishes, one thinks immediately of the large group of "yarbs" for seasoning, of which many can be grown in the home garden all summer. When winter comes several of them—particularly parsley, thyme, mint, tarragon—can be transplanted to kitchen window boxes. Here are some suggestions from the Bureau of Home Economics.

You can dry celery leaves by hanging them up in a paper sack and use them in soups, stews and stuffings. Celery seed keeps well and a small amount goes a long way in potato salad or cold slaw, as well as in soup. Chopped mint or watercress adds greatly to a stuffing for roast lamb and other meats. Half a bay leaf is enough to flavor three quarts of soup, and is the basis of the elusive spicy flavor in some of the good German cooked foods in the delicatessen.

Onion is a flavor in a class by itself. A little onion gives pep and zest to many foods otherwise a little flat in flavor. One reason onion is not always liked is that its presence is too overpoweringly evident. Judiciously used in white sauces, milk soups, stews, meat loaf, stuffings and raw in salad, onion is certainly the wife's best friend. Garlic must be handled with even more restraint. Merely rub the bowl in which you are making a French salad dressing with a cut button of garlic to get the faint suggestion of flavor.

A few drops of lemon will do much for meats of mild flavo., such as veal, cold cuts of lamb, oxtail stew, or jellied meats, and particularly for fish of all kinds. Try lemon seasoning on spinach and some of the other green leaf vegetables, too. The commercial sauces, such as Worcestershire, soy, and others, also contribute savor to cooked meats, cold cuts, and gravies, if used sparingly and not so often as to make every dish seem the same.

Spices have their place among the flavors for meats and vegetables. Curry, of course, is used for a number of dishes of East Indian origin such as curried chicken or lamb with rice, or mulligatawney soup. A "ghost" of curry powder is good in French salad dressing and in cooking lima beans. Germans like a trace of mace with green beans or canned beans and some people like a few grains of nutmeg in chicken soup. Another spice to use is clove—just a pinch—in tomato sauce for meat. Horseradish sauce goes well with beef, with beets and other vegetables, fish, or in some salad dressings. A small amount of dry mustard and molasses added to canned beans will improve them. Enough paprika to make a French dressing pink adds to its looks and flavor, and paprika is attractive when sprinkled over mashed or creamed potatoes and other neutral colored foods.

Bottled tomato catsup or chili sauce is one of the flavors that can, too, easily become a habit if put on everything, but a mixture of mayonnaise with either makes a very good Russian style salad dressing. A small amount of dry, grated cheese on a vegetable or salad or soup will give a new and different taste to the dish. This is a culinary secret that is made the most of in Italian cookery.

Perhaps the greatest cooking secret of all known to the experienced chef is the utilization of every bit of flavor of the drippings and browned meat juices in a roasting pan or skillet, if they are not scorched. A thrifty housewife likewise will boil a little water in the roasting pan after the meat is removed, to rinse out these juices. She adds this good material to her soup kettle into which also go all clean bones. When she makes a stew she browns her meat and vegetables in a little fat before she simmers them in water, and she knows that browned flour gives another distinctive flavor to any gravy. Extra chicken fat she uses to make a savory gravy to serve on rice for a luncheon dish.

With the exception of lemons, most of the seasonings which make food interesting and appetizing can be kept on hand on the pantry shelf. A few cents will buy a very good assortment of spices, herbs and commercial sauces with which to start a seasoning shelf.

NATS SUBDUE BROWNS IN 12TH, 5-4, FOR 6TH IN ROW

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

The baseball scribes at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon had visions of doubling as wrestling reporters when the game dragged into the twelfth inning with little signs of a conclusion, but the Nats won out in time to allow the erection of the ringside seats.

Dave Harris had only one hit to show for his efforts in four times at bat, but he can console himself with the fact that it was one of the longest homers ever hit in Griffith Stadium. The ball went on a line to the center-field bleachers at a time when it would do the most good, counting two runs and tying the score. It was no bunt.

An admirer of Joe Judge unloaded his wrath against Kuhel when the young first baseman missed a play in the third. "Aw, give him time," said a more tolerant fan. "Yeah, give him time," the first fan rejoined. "Time in Leavenworth." Only a sensational catch by Campbell robbed Kuhel of an extra base hit in the fifth.

Lloyd Brown used to bet that Carl Fischer couldn't get a foul off him in batting practice down in Biloxi—and win. Fischer's clean single in the seventh must have unsettled the Nats' hurler for he failed to last the next inning.

Oscar Melillo and Jim Levey may be ordinary ball players in every other city in the circuit, but they're champions in Washington. When the Nats get a hit past this second-base pair, it's a hit.

Storti got only a single on his drive high against the wall in the tenth because he turned his ankle rounding first. This department saw Eddie Collins limp painfully to the bag after a clean single a few years ago, and steal second on the next ball pitched to the surprise of everybody but Collins.

Schulte's crash into the center field fence when he backed up for Harris' homer could be heard distinctly in every section of the park and the atmosphere was steeped in tragedy until the outfielder resumed play. Three years ago he fractured his skull under the same conditions.

Al Thomas worked the last two innings for the wrestling promoters who were eager to start erection of the ring and the ringside seats for the weekly program last night. He disposed of the Browns on three pitched balls in the eleventh inning and five pitched balls in the twelfth.

U. S. Protested Nurmi, Swedish Group Asserts

To Run Unofficially If Ban Is Upheld, Is Belief.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, July 14 (A.P.).—Some of the inner flame of a pre-Olympic squabble that has been smouldering for months broke through the surface today as the second delegation of Swedish athletes arrived here with predictions that Paavo Nurmi will not be reinstated, that he will run anyway unofficially in the marathon and that the entire matter may be battled out in open meeting of nations on the eve of the Olympics.

Laying bare many of the details unknown here previously surrounding the temporary suspension of the "Flying Finn" last winter for alleged excessive expense accounts on a German tour, members of the Swedish delegation brought the United States into the discussion for the first time as the Nation that really challenged Nurmi's amateur status to the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Refuses to Discuss Case Of Nurmi.

J. Sigfrid Edstrom, head of the Swedish party, president of the I. A. A. F., and chairman of the council of seven that suspended Nurmi after Finland had refused to do so, refused to discuss any action the committee might take at its next meeting in Los Angeles, July 28. He did say, however, that Finland was free to take the verdict of his committee before the congress of the I. A. A. F., scheduled for the next day, when by vote of all the delegates of each member nation, the committee's decision could be overruled.

But Swedish newspapermen, who accompanied the delegation of 30 athletes and 7 officials, said Edstrom had spoken more freely on shipboard and had predicted Nurmi would not be reinstated.

The committee consists of Edstrom and Eckelund, a single representative each from England, France, Germany, Hungary and the United States. All but Murray Hulbert, United States representative, who did not go abroad for the Nurmi investigation, voted unanimously for his temporary suspension last winter; France, Germany and Hungary, in particular, were represented as not having changed opinions as to Nurmi's eligibility.

Newspapermen with the delegation seemed surprised, too, that the part the United States is alleged to have taken in the Nurmi suspension was not known here. One quoted Eckelund, who was not with the party, as saying for his Swedish paper that it was a letter from United States officials, and not the action of Germany or Sweden, that had caused the I. A. A. F. committee to study Nurmi's expense account receipts, letters and papers pertaining to Paavo's last German tour.

Members of the party said the Finns had warned Edstrom that Nurmi will appear at the starting line and run unofficially if he is not reinstated.

Rosenbloom Wins Over Lou Scozza

Buffalo, N. Y., July 14 (A.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom recognized by the New York State athletic commission as world's light heavyweight champion, outpointed Lou Scozza, of Buffalo, in a fifteen-round title bout here tonight.

Maxie needed all his fight experience to win the judge's decision. Maxie piled up points in the first half of the battle. In the eighth Maxie opened up a cut beside Scozza's left eye and pecked at it until the eleventh, when Scozza managed to get inside and carry the fight to the champion. From the eleventh on Maxie was in trouble and a crowd of 10,000 persons stood and roared for the local boy to score a knockout. Maxie called on all his ring experience, however, and weathered the flurry of blows which Scozza rained in the last rounds.

American Stars Open Bids for Team in Trials Today.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

PALO ALTO, Calif., July 14 (A.P.).—Although well "seeded" in the draw today for heats, favorites in the battle for places on the American Olympic track and field team face the keenest kind of a fight to survive the preliminaries tomorrow.

In this assembly of the Nation's athletic great and near-great, most of the fields are so strong and well-matched that the experts anticipate a flock of upsets as well as record-smashing performances, before the final tests of speed, skill and brawn have decided the best three performers and, automatically, the shield-wearers in each event.

Trials in 13 of 18 Events Today.

There will be trials tomorrow in thirteen of the eighteen Olympic events, leading up to the finals Saturday at Stanford's stadium. These, with three non-Olympic contests in the low hurdles, weight throw and 3-mile walk, will also make up the national senior A. A. U. track and field championship program for 1932.

The New York Athletic Club's collection of superstars, headed by Gene Venzke, George Spitz, Leo Sexton, the Lermond brothers and Percy Beard, appears certain to romp off with the national team title, despite strong West Coast opposition. The A. A. U. affair, however, is strictly a side-show to the main Olympic circus.

The process tomorrow of reducing a field of 201 starters in the 13 preliminaries to 82 survivors for Saturday's finals promises to furnish real thrills, even though extreme care has been taken in most cases to make it relatively easy for the so-called superstars of the big show.

Among the sprint aces, although Emmett Toppino, Frank Wykoff and Ralph Metcalfe have been "seeded" in separate heats of the 100-meter trials, there will be only six survivors by the time the semifinals for this classic are concluded later in the afternoon.

Tolan Sure to Have Brisk Competition.

If, as is generally expected, Eddie Tolan, Wykoff, Metcalfe and George Simpson come through the 100 safely, all they will have to do then will be to run one 200-meter test each.

Tolan, the world record-holder, will get brisk competition throughout. He is drawn against Toppino in the first heat of the 100 and "seeded" in the 200 with Hec Dyer, of the Los Angeles A. C., and Wykoff.

The 400-meter aces, Ben Eastman, of Stanford, and his intercollegiate

7 Tallies in 7th Win for Mackmen

Tigers Are Defeated, 9-2, as Foxx Hits 35th Home Run.

Philadelphia, July 14 (A.P.).—The Athletics ended their losing streak by scoring seven runs in a seventh inning rally to overwhelm the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 2, today.

Until the seventh, the game was a hurling duel between Bridges and Freitas, in which the only run scored was in a Tiger rally in the third inning. But in the seventh the Athletics sent eleven men to the plate, six connecting for base hits and another drawing a pass. Jimmy Foxx made his thirty-fifth homer of the season with two on base. Freitas held the Tigers to six hits and won his fifth game in a row.

6,000 WATCH GARIBALDI TRIUMPH

Grobmeier Is Victim in Feature After Rough Battle.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

GRIFFITH STADIUM went back on the growl and leer standard again last night after a two-week layoff, and ten sultans of suet produced themselves an interesting wrestling show, brought to a rather dynamic finish when Gino Garibaldi pasted Fred Grobmeier three beautiful socks on the chin and knocked the city's favorite son into a condition which only a mop could remedy. All this before some 6,000 fans.

It was Garibaldi's second sensational win here. Two weeks ago he stowed away another erstwhile people's choice in Rudy Dusek, whom he knocked out with a combination kick in the breadbasket and barroom-brawl fist barrage.

Excepting two appearances against Jim Londos, last night's was Grobmeier's first defeat here since Joe Turner won him in a package of zig zag last January. Garibaldi did the job properly, in 32 minutes, unleashing the whole assortment of modern and sound wrestling holds, against which Grobmeier and his single hold, the figure four scissors, often appeared amateurish.

Grobmeier's Pet Holds Fail Him.

Garibaldi escaped three of Grobmeier's pet holds, by dragging the scrawny figures clamped on his back across the ring to the haven of the ropes. On the offensive Garibaldi was unquestionably twice as good as the loser, tricking him frequently.

The winner is one of the greatest athletes in the wrestling game. He took four consecutive falls out of the ring with the ease of a great tumbler. Once he secured a cradle scissors and spun Grobmeier around and around the ring with express train power and speed. He finished off the Iowa leg expert after breaking the third of Fred's scissors locks, upsetting him with a great crash, throwing him by body slams twice and then finishing him off with three nice rights, followed by a body press.

The preliminary boys wore a trench around the ring with their dives. Rudy Dusek beat Lou Plummer in 37 minutes after Plummer had fallen heavily twice to the infield, and Rudy himself had gone out a couple of times. Jim McMillen beat a toughey in Floyd Marshall in 17 minutes of much tumbling about in and out of the ring. Marshall earned one of the greatest boos of all times when he left the ring. Vic Christy, the amateur convert, tossed Jack Zarnos in 11 minutes, and Frank Brunowicz and Pat O'Shocker tugged to a 30-minute draw in other bouts.

TRIBE SLAMS YANKS TO WIN, 11-3

5th in Row Annexed by Indians; Homer No. 26 to Ruth.

NEW YORK, July 14 (A.P.).—Continuing their victorious surge through the East, which has given them nine wins in eleven games since they left home, the Cleveland Indians socked three Yankee pitchers for an 11-to-3 verdict in today's opener at the stadium.

Led by Dick Porter and Luke Sewell, each with three solid blows, the Indians pounded Pennock, Allen and Rhodes for 16 hits in reducing the Yanks' lead over the American League to 8½ games. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Tribe.

Florida Youngster, 14, Gains Olympic Berth

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 14 (A.P.).—Clarence ("Buster") Crabbe, of Los Angeles, pulled in ahead in the 1,500-meter free style of the Olympic team trials at Coney Island this sizzling afternoon, but a freckled faced youngster from Florida was right on his heels all the way.

Finishing second, 14-year-old Ralph Flanagan, of Miami Beach, qualified for the United States Olympic team along with Crabbe and James C. Cristy, jr., of the University of Michigan, who finished third.

These three, with Al Schwartz, of the Illinois Athletic Club; Ray Thompson, of the Naval Academy, and Manuella Kalili, of Los Angeles, today definitely became members of the swimming squad of 21 which Uncle Sam will take to the coming Olympics. Schwartz, Thompson and Kalili finished in order in the 100-meter free style.

DON DOES 108.52 M. P. H.

Dumbarton, Scotland, July 14 (A.P.).—Kaye Don, testing his speedboat, Miss England III, here today, was timed unofficially at 108.52 M. P. H.

Movie Camera Records Hole in One at Memphis

Memphis, July 14 (A.P.).—A moving picture camera recorded it when Emmett Spicer, jr., former Southern golf champion, made a hole in one on a Memphis course and there was no trick about it.

Spicer and Miss Elizabeth Dunscomb were playing a twosome. They approached the twelfth hole. Miss Dunscomb made her shot and told Spicer she would make a moving picture record of his.

The ball sailed high and true, struck in front of the pin and then dropped in for an ace. The camera followed it all the way.

Crowder Faces Browns In Second of Series

A first-division berth is at stake for the Nationals in the second game of the current series with the Browns, provided the Athletics again knock off the Tigers and a real battle may be looked for. "General" Alvin Crowder, who has not faced his former St. Louis mates this season, will draw the native mound assignment, while Bill Killefer is expected to nominate George Blaeholder, who holds two victories over the Nats this season.

Dave Harris' Homer, Cronin On, Ties Score in Sixth.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A REAL battle was staged at Griffith Stadium yesterday with three extra innings being necessary before the St. Louis Browns, who previously had won seven out of eight games against the Nationals, were beaten, 5 to 4, and became the Nats sixth straight victim.

Carl Fischer and Lloyd Brown, as closely associated as ham and eggs until the former was traded recently to the St. Louis club, were the opposing pitchers and staged a battle royal until near the end. Then the going became rough and, before the finish the Browns had used Irving (Bump) Hadley, another former Nat, and Chad Kimsey, with Fred Marberry and Al (Tommy) Thomas appearing on the home hill. The triumph was credited to Thomas' record, with Kimsey taking the loss.

Bluege's Fly Scores Winning Run.

Three singles, two real blows by Sam Rice and Sam West and a complimentary hit to Ossie Bluege, broke up the game in the twelfth. One was dead when the first two of these hits put runners on third and first and then Bluege lofted to left. Realizing that he had no chance of preventing Rice from scoring after the catch, Goslin made no effort to

TRED AVON SCORES EASY VICTORY IN ARLINGTON FEATURE

Labrot Horse Home First In Canter

Late Date and Seven Veils Trail; Pardee Wins at Empire.

Latonia Feature to Major Lanphier in Stretch Duel.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 14 (A.P.).—S. W. Labrot's Tred Avon, the little gray horse, cantered home here today in the Glenn Ellyn Purse at 1 mile, and had one length and a quarter to spare over Late Date. Jockey Jimmy Burke rode the winner, which ran the distance in 1:36 and was under restraint most of the way.

Late Date finished second and Seven Veils, which set the pace for the first two furlongs, was third. Only three started. The race was worth net $2,090 to the winner. Tred Avon paid $2.64.

Empire City Race Track, July 14 (A.P.).—Pardee, the Bel Air stud's colt, which had failed to enter the winning column all season, suddenly donned his racing clothes today and defeated a smart lot of springers in the Arrow Stakes. The son of Sir Gallahad III beat Uncanny by a length and a half, with Silver Cord third.

Pardee was a 12-to-1 shot and completed his journey in 1:10 to collect the winner's share of $1,485.

It did not look as if Pardee would be close during the early stages, for he dropped right back to last place in the field of seven after breaking well. But Jockey Kelsay brought Pardee up with a rush on the outside entering the stretch and the Bel Air Colt wore down the leaders in the drive to the wire to win going away.

Latonia, Ky., July 14 (A.P.).—The greatly improved Major Lanphier came right back with another smart effort today to annex the Silverton Purse from a field of better grade pisters.

Following closely behind the early pace of Lon Jones' Barashkova, Major Lanphier took command in the stretch when ready and won under a hand ride. Barashkova, which showed good speed for the first mile and 70 trip, weakened badly in the drive, but had enough left to stall off the belated challenge of E. Haughton's Sandwrack to save the place.

Major Lanphier's victory proved a mild surprise for the talent, which backed G. Collins' Patricia Marian into favoritism and made Sandwrack second choice. His mutuel price was $10.90 for $2.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Well, Old Boy Asbestos expects to cross the $70 mark on a horse at Latonia Saturday, but he is risking three bucks today and maybe he will be over the line by Sunday. Yesterday's $2 loss made the bank roll $67.69.

$1 to win on Meeting Place at Arlington and $2 to win on Turf God, Empire.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 14.

Ran into the second habit today, three place horses beating the ones I put on top. Tred Avon outclassed her opposition to give me my only winner here. Across the board, however, I showed a neat profit. Son o' Sweep turned the trick for me in the other track's group at $19.20. Expect to get a new grip on the win column tomorrow. Stay with me, big boy.

At the other courses, give these a slant: Slapstick, Boscobel, Tuffy G., Gay Parisian, Jubilation, Bright Flag. BILL.

FIRST RACE—FLIRTING, one that I sent galloping into second place at long odds recently, appears to be the best of the group of maiden 2-year-olds to face the barrier in the first. HER ELEGANCE, another recommended to me by the clockers, and STEP SISTER to battle it out for the third end.

SECOND RACE—WATCH TOWER seems to have hit something of the form expected of him earlier in the season and should take care of these. WORTHINGTON should have won a maiden race that I remember in Maryland last spring and may surprise by placing ahead of MEETING PLACE.

THIRD RACE—There are two horses that get in this race with a lot of weight off, and I'm backing them to run one, two. They are BRIGHT BIRD and VOLTAGREEN. I admit it looks like I am determined to run down BRIGHT BIRD. Would drop him, but still feel that he has a victory in his system. STOCK MARKET and ESKIMO to battle for the third end.

FOURTH RACE—VOLLETTE broke the track record recently and seems to need no other recommendation. POLYGENY failed as a favorite but may be second here. EDELWEISS for third.

FIFTH RACE—WILLIAM T. gets in this race with 101 pounds up. It has been a long time since the veteran has run so lightly burdened. He may fancy the conditions and step away with all of it. BARCELONA PETE to place in front of BURNING UP.

SIXTH RACE—CAPTAIN ED won so impressively the other day that I am forced to put him on top. Meade will probably ride ANITA ORMONT tomorrow and that gal may be the second one. ONO for show.

SEVENTH RACE—ZIDA can beat these kind and should do it tomorrow. Looks like HARAMZADA will be the one to beat, with LADRONE third.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE Toscanini Fund Concerts, held in the Great Hall of the College of the City of New York, will be broadcast each week for a period of four weeks over WMAL and a Nation-wide network, beginning this afternoon.

Sandor Harmati, prominent Hungarian conductor and composer, will direct the 52-piece symphony orchestra engaged by the Musicians' Emergency Aid. The series of concerts, which are open to the general public without charge, is made possible by the money raised by Toscanini in April of this year when he made a special trip to this country from Italy to conduct the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall in a gala benefit performance for unemployed musicians.

Selections for today's concert include Goldmark's "The Country Wedding," a group of "Liebeslieder Waltzes" by Brahms in an arrangement by Hafin; Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance in E Minor," Nathaniel Dett's authentic negro composition, "Juba Dance," and Berlioz's "Rakoczy March." The vocal feature of the concert will present Ivan Ivantzoff, operatic and concert tenor, singing "Cavatina" from Borodin's "Prince Igor."

A special program, featuring the music of Art Krueger's band, a chorus of one hundred voices, and prominent soloists, will dedicate the formal opening of new studios of WISN, Milwaukee, during a broadcast tonight (WMAL, 11:30 o'clock).

VIRGINIA REA, the radio soprano formerly known as Olive Palmer, will be heard as soloist with Paul Whiteman's orchestra over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight. This will be Miss Rea's first microphone appearance in several months.

"The Jazz Nocturne," by 19-year-old Dana Suesse, will be featured by the Cities Service Concert Orchestra with the composer at the piano during the concert (WRC, 7 p. m.). Countess Olga Albani and the Cavaliers will take part in a dramatic sketch which will include a medley of dance tunes by Rosario Bourdon's orchestra.

Pacific plaints plucked on steel and string by Holoua's Royal Hawaiians will be featured on Nathaniel Shilkret's Week-End Hour (WMAL, 8 o'clock) tonight. * * * Alex Gray, barytone, will sing "Rose Marie," selections from "Rio Rita" and "Sweet Lily May" during his program (WMAL, 9 o'clock) tonight. * * * "The Lady of Lyons," a five-act play by Sir Edward Lytton Bulwer, will be presented by the Radio Guild players this afternoon (WRC, 3:15 o'clock). * * * Up-to-the-minute tunes in a variety of dance rhythms will be played by Leo Reisman and his orchestra on Pond's program over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight. * * * The last two movements, Allegro scherzo and Allegro finale, from Beethoven's beautiful Fifth Symphony, will be played by the Columbia Symphony Orchestra during the concert to be broadcast under the direction of Howard Barlow (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock) tonight.

ARE mystery dramas good summer radio entertainment? A tobacco company casts a vote in the affirmative and adds a thriller from the archives of the New York Police Department to its Tuesday broadcasts. A coffee company says "No" and takes off its Sherlock Holmes broadcasts for the summer, substituting a dance band and an orchestra. And the question remains unanswered.

Ralph Robertson, who used to announce for Station WRC and later went to Station KMTR, Los Angeles, will play the role of an announcer in Paramount's "The Big Broadcast."

In a television test to be made by Columbia next week, receivers set up in front of a dance orchestra will enable the musicians to follow the conductor's baton and to hear his instruction as he faces the flying dot nine blocks away. This is claimed to be the first broadcast in which an orchestra is to be led by television.

THE Catholic Evidence Guild presents Dr. Frank O'Hara, head of the department of economics at the Catholic University, in his concluding lecture on "The Authenticity of the Gospels," this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock over Station WOL.

Vaughan De Leath is back in New York after her week's vaudeville engagement in Washington, enthusiastic about her latest "discovery" here. He is Wilton Mendelsohn, a 10-year-old barytone. His reward is a thirteen-week radio engagement.

FRITZ KREISLER is one of the very few great artists who have not become reconciled to the radio. During a broadcast in Amsterdam recently, conducted by Willem Mengelberg, Kreisler would not allow his violin solo to go on the air, but instead substituted one of his phonograph records, which was broadcast.

DR. ROBERTS WAS AMAZED TO HEAR THAT PROF TAYLOR HAD GIVEN UP ALL IDEA OF OPENING THE TOMB OF PHARAOH AMON
WHY, JOHN, JUST BECAUSE OLD STARK TRIED TO MURDER US, IS THAT ANY REASON WE SHOULD QUIT?! WE HAVE HIS MAP NOW AND CAN GO DIRECTLY TO THE TOMB TO-MORROW!!
BILL, YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND!! DO YOU REMEMBER THE WARNING THAT ALICE HAD IN A "DREAM" THE OTHER NIGHT?! WELL, IT WASN'T A DREAM AT ALL! BUT AN ACTUAL EXPERIENCE!!
GREAT SCOTT, DO YOU BELIEVE IN THE SUPER-NATURAL?!!
NO, I BELIEVE ONLY IN THE NATURAL, BUT OFTEN WHAT SEEMS TO BE "SUPERNATURAL" TO US IS MERELY THE WORKING OUT OF A NATURAL LAW NOT YET COMPREHENDED BY US!!
I, TOO, HAVE RECEIVED THE SAME WARNING THAT ALICE RECEIVED!! I MIGHT AS WELL TELL YOU, ALSO, THAT STARK IS DOOMED TO SUFFER THE SAME FATE HE PREPARED FOR US!!
TWO DAYS AFTERWARDS THE LITTLE PARTY LEFT THE RUINS OF THE TEMPLE OF ISIS AND WENDED ITS WAY NORTHWARD TOWARDS CIVILIZATION

COTTON DROPS RISE OF FORMER SESSION

Liquidation and Boll Weevil Weather Cited is Losing; Liverpool Covers.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Yesterday's advances were lost in the cotton market today under liquidation and scattered selling, promoted by a continuance of favorable weather for boll weevil control in the South and weakness of the wheat market.

October contracts sold off to 5.66 and closed at 5.67, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 20 to 22 points.

The initial demand, which included some buying here by Liverpool on the differences and a little business from the continent, was quite readily supplied, and the market eased after the opening under further commission house selling and liquidation.

Prices yielded under comparatively slight pressure, reflecting absence of aggressive support. Some Southern selling was reported, also further selling of October through brokers who sometimes act for cooperative interests, and this, combined with the declines in wheat, accelerated the afternoon decline. July contracts sold off to 5.53 and December to 5.80, and closing quotations were at the lowest of the day on most positions.

The census report placing domestic consumption for June at 320,783 bales, against 453,901 last year, was about as expected.

Liverpool cables, repored covering and trade calling in that market. Exports today, 24,400, making 8,571,047 so far this season.

WHEAT VALUES SINK AGAIN TO NEW LOWS

Selling and Tax Burdens Figure in Reactions; Other Grains Down.

Chicago, July 14 (A.P.).—All future deliveries of wheat smashed down late today, and outdid the season's previous bottom-price record.

Stop-loss selling and general liquidation set in, with trade attention focused on warnings dispatched to President Hoover and congressional leaders that a breakdown of commodity market machinery was threatened during the heavy crop movement of wheat. The warnings, which came from the principal commodity exchanges of the country, said a grave situation had resulted from "the utterly prohibitive tax of 5 cents on each $100 value of future commodity transactions, a 400 per cent increase.

Wheat closed shaky at the day's lowest figures, 1⅝ to 2 cents under yesterday's finish; corn ¾ to 1½ down; oats ½ to 1 off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 10 cents decline.

Buying Influence Lasting.

Despite buying, which developed on the setback and was ascribed to Eastern holders, no adequate power to rally was apparent. In some quarters, belief was expressed that the Farm Board was easing out of its speculative holdings.

Aside from developments regarding the huge increase of commodity exchange taxes, the day's news was not especially bearish.

Some notice was taken of Washington estimates that the wheat crop of the Danube Basin would be only 283,000,000 bushels this season, against 364,000,000 last year.

Corn, oats and rye followed the trend of wheat.

Provisions worked lower, influenced by setbacks both in hog value and in grains.

Small Investors Increase Despite Operation of Bears

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Figures made available today show that despite the bear market in security prices the total number of small investors has substantially increased.

A study of 48 representative American corporations, made by De Coppet & Doremus, New York Stock Exchange firm, shows that 2,257,637, or 88 per cent, of a total of 2,565,250 of the companies' common stockholders own odd lots. Odd lots are less than 100 shares accepted as the trading unit in stock exchange transactions.

At the end of 1929, the survey shows, the same corporations had 1,571,863 odd-lot holders. In the two-year period, ending last December 31, their number increased by 685,774, or 44 per cent. In the same period, the number of holders of 100 shares or more increased 67,915, or 28 per cent.

BOND RALLY DEFIES OTHER SALE LOSSES

Irregular Advances Appear in Foreign and Utilities; New Financing Blamed.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—Bonds continued to advance today, although considerable irregularity was apparent in the foreign government group and in some of the utility securities which reacted on new financing projects. Losses in other markets were ignored.

Transactions fell below the $10,000,000 mark for the first time this week, the total being $9,863,000 par value.

The offerings of about $40,000,000 of new bonds for utility companies, coupled with the announced plan to sell $30,000,000 of Consolidated Gas Co. of New York bonds in the investment market tomorrow, caused some churning in the utility group. However, declines were confined largely to the bonds of those companies figuring in new financing plans.

Losses of fractions to more than a point developed in the American Telephone group on fairly heavy turnover, Brooklyn Union Gas 5s, Consolidated Gas issues and New York City tractions.

These losses were offset by gains of 1 to 3 points in a fair number of utility bonds, including Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Laclede Gas Light 5½s, North American 5s, International Telephone issues, Postal Telegraph 5s and the Western Union 5s of 1960.

Buying of railroad loans was well sustained, gains of as much as 4 points occurring in some. Allegheny Corporation, Santa Fe, Boston & Maine, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Louisville & Nashville, M.-K.-T., Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Reading and Southern Pacific loans were firm.

Buying of U. S. Governments tapered off with prices little changed. Foreign governments were irregularly higher.

CURB FAILS TO KEEP UP GAINS IN PRICES

Market Closes Irregularly After Early Recovery; Oils Soften.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—The Curb Market endeavored to extend its recovery for a time today, but ran into selling flurries in the latter part of session, and the close was irregular. Trading continued to expand, approximating 110,000 shares, the largest in about a month, and nearly double the small volume of recent sessions.

Utilities were higher for a time. Commonwealth Edison rose 5½ points, then receded 2 from the top. American Gas & Electric rose more than a point, but virtually lost its gain later. Electric Bond & Share finished off a minor fraction.

Associated Gas issues were mostly under pressure, the class A stock sagging ⅜ of a point to a new low at ¾, and closing at 1. A number of the Associated Gas bonds receded 2 to 3 points. The company has appealed to its security holders to purchase the listed mortgage bonds of four of its subsidiaries to help to pay $18,556,000 in approching maturities. The preferred stock of Metropolitan Edison, one of the subsidiaries, appeared at 45, up 7½ in a small turnover.

Oils softened somewhat. Gulf fell back 2 points in moderate selling, and Indiana sagged a small fraction. Industrials were mixed. Imperial Tobacco rose 2 points to the best price of the year, and gains of a point or so appeared in Aluminum, Ltd., Carrier Corporation and Pratt & Lambert. Deere rose ¾ of a point, then sagged, in sympathy with wheat. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, one of the few rails traded here, appeared at 29½, up more than 8 points. Newmont Mining rose 2, then lost half its gain.

More Life Insurance Sold.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—New life insurance written during the first six months of 1932 totaled $5,027,768,000.

STOCKS YIELD AGAIN AFTER BUYING RUSH

Losses at Close Are Small, Except 5-Point Decline in Auburn Autos.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—After a buying flurry in the first half hour, stocks made a dignified withdrawal to lower ground today.

Obviously, the market was unable to move counter to reactions in wheat, cotton and live stock, the commodities whose advance had stimulated them on Wednesday.

Net losses averaged small. Except for a drop of 5 points in Auburn and of about a point each in American Telephone, U. S. Steel preferred, American Can, Coca-Cola and Allied Chemical, the setback was of minor proportions, on the basis of net changes, although many favorites had been a point higher during the early rise. Transactions again approximated the million-share mark, actual turnover being 999,205.

Although Wall street was doubtless a little disappointed that stocks were unable to carry through another advance, brokers thought the list had done reasonably well in view of the absence of stimulating news.

During market hours Congress was in a snarl over the relief bill, casting some doubt on the prospect of adjournment by the week-end.

The protest against taxes on commodity futures, sent to Washington by leading exchanges, gave a pessimistic view of what was likely to happen to futures trading.

Bradstreet's index of food prices, which has been rising since the third week in June, makes another advance in the current period and recent strength of hogs and hog products, the review says, "gives rise to the hope of a continued improvement."

The Federal Reserve System resumed its Government security purchasing, interrupted last week, but on the smallest scale so far reported since active accumulation was started early in April.

This week's increment was about $20,000,000.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Yesterday's rally in Wall street and the Anglo-French agreement cheered sentiment on the stock exchange, but failed to bring any expansion in business which continues small. German bonds advanced, silkedged securities and transatlantic issues were firm and others were inactive. The market closed quiet.

Berlin—Prices on the bourse opened unchanged and closed quiet.

Paris—Holiday, Bastille Day.

Relief for Depositors Seen As 3 Capital Banks Close

Institutions Taken Over to Conserve Assets for Creditors.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Eventual relief for depositors and stockholders is forecast following the closing yesterday of the North Capitol Savings Bank, the International Exchange Bank and the Departmental Bank.

Relative to two of the banks, Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole issued the following statement:

"Upon examination of the International Exchange Bank, Fifth and H streets northwest, Washington, D. C., and of the North Capitol Savings Bank, 1 H street northwest, Washington, D. C., which examinations have revealed that they are insolvent, I have taken possession of such banks in order that their assets may be conserved for the creditors and the public be protected by not permitting these banks to accept deposits."

News of the suspension of the Departmental Bank's operations came last night through a statement by the board of directors.

The statement read: "The board of directors unanimously decided to suspend operations and turn the affairs of the bank over to the Comptroller of Currency. This action was wholly voluntary on the part of the bank and was taken purely as a precautionary measure in view of the recent closing of several banking concerns."

Eckert Issues Statement.

President John A. Eckert of North Capitol Savings Bank issued the following statement: "The closing of the North Capitol Savings Bank is due to impairment of its capital by losses and to frozen assets. The assets which can be promptly realised upon should yield a fair dividend, but to realize on all the assets will take some time.

"I have been a stockholder of the bank for some years and in July, 1931, was appealed to to become its president. I consented without assuming actual management of the ordinary banking business, which was left to Mr. F. P. Williams, who was appointed comptroller of the bank on the suggestion of the Comptroller of the Currency.

"We found that many loans which could not be considered good were carried in the assets and that a very large sum was invested indirectly in two apartment houses. We worked diligently to straighten things out and got the apartment house matters into better shape although frozen.

Collections Are Slow.

"No losses were incurred since last October, but we made little progress in collecting on the old loans we considered bad. As a result we saw little prospect of being able to continue and thought closing of the bank the best for the depositors."

North Capitol Savings Bank was organized in 1913, opening for business in a building directly across from its present location into which it moved in 192.

International Exchange Bank now headed by Frank J. Kaufmann, jr., who became its president in 1931, succeeding the late Joseph Schiavone, was incorporated in 1921 and was the outgrowth of a foreign exchange opened here by Mr. Schiavone during the World War.

Stocks.

Retreat made to low ground after buying rush. Slump in other markets blamed. Losses were small, with exception of 5-point Auburn auto drop.

Bonds.

Advance was continued irrespective of declines in other exchanges. Some losses appeared in utilities, due to extensive new financing in that field.

Curb.

Climb in profits failed following early rally. Market closed irregularly. Oils softened. Turnover increased to 110,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values collapsed to new low levels on selling, liquidation and tax-burden warning. Other grains were down.

Cotton.

Profits of former session given up on liquidation and boll weevil weather reports. Losses ranged from 20 to 22 points. Liverpool covered.

PHONE 1932 INCOME CUT TO $75,099,345

$130,846,788 Total for Six Months Compares With $150,379,198 in 1931.

New York, July 14 (A.P.).—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today issued its earnings statement for the first six months of this year showing net income of $75,099,345 against $89,213,356 in the corresponding period of 1931.

Total earnings were $130,846,788 against $150,379,198 in the same 1931 period. After dividend payments, the company had a deficit for the half-year of $8,873,020 against a balance one year ago of $9,331,270.

"During the first six months of 1932 the number of Bell system telephones disconnected exceeded those added by about 785,000," said Walter S. Gifford, president. Long distance calls declined 15 per cent from last year.

"While the company shows earnings of $4.02 per share in the first half of 1932, dividends received from associated companies amounting to $89,671,363 were not fully earned by these companies during the six months by approximately $8,000,000."

The company has received no dividends this year from the Western Electric Co., as compared with $10,-325,862 received in the first six months of last year. Western Electric is now operating at about 20 per cent of capacity, Mr. Gifford said, with a net loss for the first four months of this year of $3,381,000.

Lehigh Portland Cement Co. had net loss of $484,020 in the year ended June 30, compared with profit of $1,631,440 in the previous year.

White Rock Mineral Springs Co. had net profit of $422,153 in the first half of this year, against $560,837 in the same period of 1931.

VAN SOUGHT FOR LAUREL PROGRAM

Would Battle Irving July 25 If Both Survive Bouts.

THE possibility that Young Van and Henry Irving, red hot rivals for the District's middleweight boxing championship, may appear on the same card at Twin City arena Wednesday night was divulged last night by Matchmaker C. E. Cornell.

Having already signed Irving to oppose "Big Boy" Smith Salisbury, Md., slugger, in a six-round bout, it was gathered that Van likely will be featured against an opponent to be selected shortly over the same route.

Should both boys survive their respective tests, their long awaited match may eventuate in the Laurel, Md., plant on July 25.

The meeting of Van and Irving would form one of the choicest local "naturals" since the clash involving Henry Lamar and Marty Gallagher at the Silver Spring armory years ago. Both are knockers-out who have gained large followings through their willingness to mix it with anyone selected for them.

Although Irving possesses a distinct edge in experience over Van, the latter is regarded by many as the best prospect turned out locally in years.

These bouts would back up the ten-round main event featuring Jimmy Reed, Jacksonville, Fla., junior welter, and Phil Raymond, Baltimore's knockout artist.

Fish Are Biting Well Off Sharps Island

Large catches of hardheads and trout are reported off Sharps Island by Capt. Noah Hazard, veteran fisherman. A party including W. H. Roland, F. G. George, J. Payne, Ted Folk, Alwyn Folk, Stephen Folk, E. H. Hiller, Ben Culp, George Trometer, and Albert Klass recently made a record catch. Capt. Hazard predicts large hauls during the sojourn of the present moon.

NATS BEAT BROWNS, 5-4, IN 12 INNINGS

catch the ball and so Bluege was credited with a single, too.

The Browns started with a rush and scored twice in the opening frame on two bases on balls, separated by Campbell's double, and a single by Ferrell. A walk and Cronin's triple gave the Nats one of these back in their half and then, in the third, the visitors scored again, because Joe Kuhel stopped to think.

Campbell opened this round with a triple and it looked as though Brown would pull out of the hole when Goslin popped out. Ferrell walked and Melillo rolled to Myer. Myer ran Ferrell back toward first and then pegged to the initial sack to nail the hitter. This left Ferrell trapped between the sacks, but Kuhel thought that Umpire Ormsby already had called him out for running off the baselines, and made no effort to catch him. Meanwhile Campbell scored.

Dave Harris Clouts Mighty Homer.

In the sixth, the Nats knotted the string, Dave Harris hitting a mighty homer into the stands in direct center after Cronin had opened with a walk. With two dead in the seventh, Manush singled and stole and then the Browns evened up for the run Kuhel had given them by letting Manush score. Ferrell's peg to catch the stealer was bad and Manush went on to third and, when he saw Schulte retrieving the ball in short center, he kept on going and registered the center fielder pegged badly to the plate.

It looked as though this run would stand up, until the ninth. Marberry was on the hill then and he walked Schulte, first to face him. Burns' single put this tying run on third and, after Campbell fanned, Goslin singled. This knotted the string and put Burns on third, but Marberry pulled out of this hole by forcing Ferrell to pop to Myer and Melillo to fan.

Storti's Injury Prevents Run.

Manush's double, with one dead, was wasted in the home half and then the Browns gave the Nats and the small gathering another scare. Storti was sent to the tee for Scharein and, but for the fact that he turned his ankle rounding first, the Nats would have been beaten in this round. This accident held him on first on a drive off the right field wall. After Levey hit into a force play, Kimsey singled him to third and a sensational double play prevented a score. Cronin went behind second for Schulte's looper and his wheeling but perfect peg nipped Levey at the counting block for a double play.

There were no other serious threats until the Nats copped the verdict in the third extra round.

It was a peculiar game, particularly with respect to the Nats' hitting. Not until two were dead in the seventh were they able to get a single, their blows until this stage of the proceedings having been a homer by Harris, triples by Bluege and Cronin, and a double also by the latter, who added another two-bagger to his record later in the game to lead both teams at bat.

West made two fine catches but the best defensive play of the game prevented the Nats from winning in regulation time. It was a diving, shoe-string grab by Goose Goslin in the home fourth, which robbed Spencer of at least a double and prevented two Washington scores.

Arlington County Votes Down Amateur Boxing

Meeting in special session last night, the Arlington County board refused to adopt an ordinance which would have permitted amateur boxing in the county. The ordinance was presented by Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion. Several residents of the county spoke for and against the measure.

Bolling Field Lists 7 Wrestling Bouts

Speer and Wilson Clash in Feature Spot on Tuesday Night Card.

Seven rassling bouts will make up the next show at Bolling Field, to be staged Tuesday night at either the indoor or outdoor arenas at the air field.

Frank Speer, who is so unpopular that customers flock through the turnstiles to boo him, is the feature attraction on the card, meeting Doc Wilson in a finish bout. Another finish match brings together Herbie Freeman and Glenn Munn, the latter a promising young heavy.

In other bouts Jerry Monahan meets Joe De Vito; Cy Williams tangles with George Manich; Tony Felice has a session with the Masked Marvel and Buck Olsen will meet a yet to be named opponent.

The "Ladies Free" sign will be hung out once more. The preliminaries have been limited to 20 minutes, except the top one, which brings together Billy Bartush and George McLeod, this being a 30-minute affair.

Chisox Beat Red Sox In Eleventh Frame, 9-8

Boston, July 14 (A.P.).—Chicago's White Sox eked out a 9-to-8 victory over the Red Sox in 11-innngs today after a six-run lead, accumulated in the first two innings, had been wiped out. Jolley tied the score with a home run after two were out in the ninth, but the White Sox clinched the game in the eleventh when Funk hit a Texas leaguer double and scored on two infield plays.

Seeded Stars Advance In Longwood Doubles

Brookline, Mass., July 14 (A.P.).—Headed by the top-ranked Californians Keith Gledhill and Joe Coughlin, the leading half of the seeded list in the fortieth annual Longwood Bowl doubles tennis play, today moved into the semifinal round.

Gledhill and Coughlin eliminated Dave Jones, New York, and Arnold Jones, Providence, 6—4, 6—4, and the second and seeded pair, Berkeley Bell, New York, and W. F. Coen, jr., Kansas City, kept pace with them by upsetting Henry Culley and Keith Werner, Los Angeles, 6—1, 7—5.

Jack Tidball and Elbert Lewis, of Los Angeles, seeded third, had to play an extra set before eliminating Martin Buxby, Miami, and Hal Surface, Kansas City, 6—2, 3—6, 6—1. Jake Hess, Fort Worth, Tex., and Eugene McCauliff, New York, filled the second last bracket by outbattling William Law and Ray Palmer, New York, 7—5, 9—7.

The singles semifinalists were idle today.

conqueror, Bill Carr, of Pennsylvania, are "seeded" in separate trial heats and can not meet before Saturday but they face strong competition from the outset.

Leo Sexton's work with the shot has established him a favorite over Herman Brix in a renewal of their East-West duel. Lambert Redd, of Bradley Tech, a comparative newcomer, has caught expert fancy in the broad as well as triple jump, along with Sid Bowman, of Louisiana.

Willis Ward, Michigan freshman, threatens George Spitz and other stars in the high jump. John Anderson, who placed in the 1928 Olympics, is the discus choice over Western rivals, while Lee Bartlett, Michigan veteran, is favored in the javelin.

The draw for heats in the 100 meters follows:

100-meter dash (three heats, qualifying three each for semifinals). First heat—Emmett Toppino, New Orleans; Eddie Tolan, Detroit; Stewart Wilcox, Wesleyan; Hudson Hellmich, Illinois.

Second heat—Frank Wykoff, Southern California; George Simpson, Columbus, Ohio; J. A. Johnson, Illinois State Normal; W. P. Carr, Millrose A. A., New York; Ralph Montague, Olympic Club, San Francisco.

Third heat—Ralph Metcalf, Marquette; Don Bennett, Ohio State; Nat George, West Coast A. C.; Earl Wednert, Maryland; Dick Hardy, Cornell University.

200-meter dash (three heats, qualifying three each for semifinals on Saturday). First heat—Mulkey, Simpson, Wilcox. Second heat—Ben Johnson, of Plymouth High School; Ashley Burch, of the West Coast A. C.

Third heat—Tolan, Wykoff, George, Hellmich, and Rec Dyer, of Los Angeles A. C.

BUC RECRUIT PUZZLE TO BRAVES

Bill Swift Yields But 4 Hits in Pirates' 6-1 Victory.

PITTSBURGH, July 14 (A.P.).—Manager George Gibson told one of his youngest pitchers, Bill Swift, to go out and stop the Boston Braves today. Swift did. He gave them just four hits and hung up a 6-to-1 win, his ninth of the season.

Swift permitted only one Brave to reach third base. Horace Ford tripled and scored on Worthington's long fly in the fourth inning.

The Pirates fell upon Harry Seibold for two runs in the fourth, Vaughan's single, a triple by Gus Suhr and a single by Thevenow wresting the lead from Boston.

Girl Swimmers Start Olympic Trials Today

New York, July 14 (U.P.).—Ninety-three of the best girl swimmers and divers in the United States will start competition tomorrow in the two-day final tryouts for the American Olympic women's swimming team at Jones Beach, N. Y.

Trials and finals in four events will be run off tomorrow, and the remaining three events will be contested Saturday. The tryouts are under the auspices of the New York Daily News Athletic Association.

Tomorrow's program includes competition in the 100-meters free-style swim, 200-meters breast stroke and springboard or fancy diving. Victors in the 100-meters event also will be selected to race on the 400-meter Olympic relay team.

Pop Bottle Thrower Is Upheld by Judge

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 14 (A. P.).—A "pop bottle" thrower who let fly at a baseball umpire found judicial countenance for his tactics in municipal court today, and with it came the judge's indictment against umpiring in general hereabouts.

Their decisions would exasperate a saint," boomed Judge Martin Fleming, as he dismissed B. H. White, who was charged with tossing a bottle at an umpire after a decision not to his liking.

"If they continue to operate around Chattanooga, we will soon not have baseball but 'pop ball,'" the judge added. "Some of our best citizens are outraged at the treatment the Chattanooga Lookouts received and it's a wonder those umpires were not deluged with bottles."

THREE WOULD HEAD COUNTY FIRE BODY

Seven Persons Are Arrested in Prince Georges on Liquor Charges.

Subject to preelection maneuvering it appeared yesterday that there would be three candidates for the presidency of the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association when it holds its annual convention in Bowie August 13.

The three men known to be in the race are W. R. Beatty, of Bladensburg; Noah Joffe, of Bowie, and William J. Tierney, of Greater Capitol Heights. Mr. Beatty is now vice president of the association, while Mr. Tierney and Mr. Joffe head their respective fire companies.

Seven persons were arrested yesterday on liquor charges by Federal dry agents working in Southern Maryland and another was charged with assaulting an agent. George Quade, a clerk in the store of W. S. Thrall, at Bushford, Md., was arrested after agents said they made a buy from him in Thrall's store. Thrall himself also was arrested and the two were charged with sale and possession of liquor.

Joseph Long, C. G. Hall and William Gass, all of Bushford, also were arrested on liquor charges after an agent had made a buy. After purchasing a small quantity of alleged liquor, the agent told he wanted more, and would wait while it was brought from the still. When the second lot was delivered, additional agents had arrived and arrested the three men. Robert and Benjamin Briscoe, of Marbury, Md., were taken in a raid on a 20-gallon still found near their home.

While bringing the Briscoe brothers to jail, the agents said, they stopped at the home of Wallace F. Clark, near Pomonkey, to get water for their car. Clark agreed to give them the water, they said, but then struck Agent L. G. Mitchell without warning while he was filling the radiator. Clark was brought on to Marlboro and charged with assault on a Federal officer.

Four cases of diphtheria and eight of scarlet fever were reported in Prince Georges County during June, according to the monthly health report, and three diphtheria carriers were found and isolated. One of these carriers was in an institution with a number of other small children, but all of them had been inoculated and no cases developed as a result of the exposure to the disease.

A new wiring arrangement whereby the traffic light in Mount Rainier can be thrown to give the fire department right of way was installed yesterday by members of the department. Under this arrangement when the fire engines must go down Thirty-fourth street a button is pushed in the firehouse and the traffic light stops all cross-traffic until the engines have passed.

Cary McNab Euwer, 18 years old, of Marlboro, has been awarded the James Marcel Hopkins Memorial scholarship to Princeton University, it has been announced at Mercersburg Academy. The youth is the son of Mrs. Mary M. Euwer, of the school board office in Marlboro. He plans to take a prelegal course at Princeton.

SANDLOT DUST

TROUBLE is brewing in the Departmental League. Dissatisfied with the present constitution of the loop and of the opinion that a man connected with, or employed by the Government should be at its helm, certain parties have set the machinery in motion to have the rules completely revised and Vic Gauzza, president, ousted.

Gauzza, who has presided over the league since its organization eight years ago, was obliged to render decisions on the eligibility of several players this season. In each instance the team losing the players objected to his decision but he always was upheld by a majority of the board of managers. Nevertheless, the parties concerned are disgruntled and it is believed will ask for a new deal. A meeting is to be held in the near future.

Until this year, only five teams comprised the league, but with the dissolution of the Governmental League all of the teams in the latter organization, with the exception of one of the G. P. O. teams, were granted franchises in the Departmental League.

In all he time that Gauzza has been at the helm this is the first season wherein he has encountered any real trouble, and this year has brought more that the other seven combined.

He is certain of the support of several managers of the league and an attempt to oust him may split the league into two factions.

Battle of Jockeys Seen for Classic

Workman, Coucci, James, Sande, Others Seek $70,000 Purse.

Chicago, July 14 (A.P.).—The $70,000 added classic, climax of the Arlington Park season on Saturday, promises to be as great a battle between riders as a contest between great 3-year-olds.

Sonny Workman will be astride the favorite, C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, and Silvo Coucci, the sensational Italian youngster from New York, who piloted Gusto to triumph in the American Derby, again will have the mount on the Morton L. Schwartz star.

Believing his colt Rehoboth, which made an impressive showing in the classic trial Tuesday, has a grand chance in the race, Dr. J. Fred Adams, of Baltimore, today opened negotiations with Earl Sande to have the veteran jockey ride his 3-year-old.

James Healy, who trains Stepenfetchit for Mrs. John Hay Whitney, announced that Bob Pinnerty would come to Chicago from Latonia to ride the colt which landed third in the Kentucky Derby and captured the Latonia Derby. Bobby Jones, ranked by many as the outstanding jockey of the West, will ride W. R. Coe's Osculator, and Tommy Malley will be up on Faireno, which will go to the post one of the best-liked in the race.

Jimmy Burke will be astride Springsteel, and Bubble Up will be ridden by Eugene James, who guided Burgoo King to victory in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

No. 8 at folio 116 of the Land Records of the District of Columbia, and running thence with said Westerly line North 31 degrees 9 minutes, East 35.12 feet to the Southerly line of the land conveyed to the United States of America by deed recorded in Liber 3040, folio 407 of the land records; thence with said Southerly line North 64 degrees 42 minutes West 23.33 feet; thence South 31 degrees 9 minutes West to said Northerly line of Benning Road; and thence with said Northerly line of said Road South 88

SCHREINER BONDED; PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Further Hearing Is Arranged for Next Thursday; Larceny Charged.

Arrested on a United States Commissioner's warrant charging him with larceny of $59,700 from the Bank of Brightwood, Raymond L. Schreiner, president of the institution, yesterday was given a preliminary hearing by United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage and was held under a nominal bond of $5,000 after he had entered a plea of not guilty.

At the request of Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly, Schreiner's hearing was cut short and a further hearing was set for next Thursday. It is probable that the case will have been submitted to the grand jury before the hearing date arrives.

Schreiner, accompanied by his attorney, Harvey L. Cobb, surrendered himself in the office of Mr. Fihelly after yesterday's Post had carried a story that the Bank of Brightwood had been taken over by the Comptroller of the Currency because of an alleged shortage in the bank's accounts. The bank was closed yesterday.

It was explained that the step was taken to conserve the bank's assets. Further, it was said that the bank was protected by a $25,000 bond and by an assignment made to it by Schreiner of sufficient of his personal property to meet any deficit arising from any shortage.

Schreiner, now only 34 years old, is one of the youngest bank executives in the city. He has been connected with the bank since 1922, when it was organized. He is married and has two children.

Rumors were current yesterday that at least one large bank here was conducting negotiations with a view to taking over the Brightwood bank.

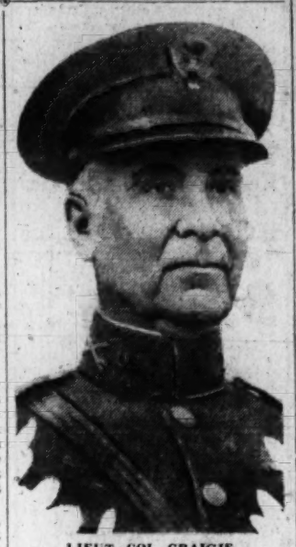
Army Supply Bill Releases High School Cadet Teachers

Lieut. Col. Craigie and His 3 Assistants Relieved From Duty Aug. 15.



LIEUT. COL. CRAIGIE.

Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, U. S. A., Cavalry, professor of military science and tactics of the Washington High School Cadet Corps, and his entire staff of three officers will be relieved from duty on August 15, according to provision of the Army appropriation bill signed yesterday by the President.

Lieut. Col. John G. Donovan, Maj. Raymond G. Payne and Capt. Robert W. Norton, assistant professors of military science and tactics, assigned to duty here to instruct the local cadet corps, are the others to be relieved.

Under the new law all retired officers of the Army who have been kept on duty for instructional or recruiting duty must be definitely retired. One hundred and twenty-nine officers in all throughout the country are affected by the rule, which does not leave one officer in the local cadet system.

Col. Craigie came to Washington in May, 1921, to instruct the cadet corps. During his tour of duty here the personnel has been increased more than 50 per cent and the efficiency of the organization developed until it is ranked today as probably the finest high school cadet brigade in the country.

Lieut. Col. Donovan is a native of Washington, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donovan, of 1213 I street northwest. A high school cadet in 1901 he enlisted in the Army in 1904 and rose through the ranks and was retired in 1922. He had been attached to the general staff of the War College. In 1925 he joined the instructional staff of the Cadet Corps here. He is a Coast Artillery officer and has been instructor at Western, Eastern, Central and Business High Schools.

Maj. Payne, Coast Artillery Corps, came here in September, 1925. He has instructed at McKinley, Eastern and Western High Schools.

Capt. Norton, Infantry, came to Washington last summer and was assigned to duty at Eastern High School.

USERS PAY ELECTRIC LOSS, NORRIS SAYS

Consumers Are Deprived of Low Rate Allowed Utility, He Tells Senate.

District users of electric current pay the loss resulting from reduced rates allowed the Washington Railway & Electric Co. by the Potomac Electric Power Co., Senator George W. Norris (Republican), Nebraska, charged yesterday in a Senate review of Federal Trade Commission power investigations.

Discussing "holding companies which are operating right under the nose of Congress," he pointed out that the North American Co. controls the Washington Railway & Electric Co., which in turn controls the Potomac Electric Power Co.

While the latter unit sells electricity to District residents, the Washington Railway & Electric Co. "is the preferred customer," he said.

When Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, pointed out that the Washington Railway & Electric Co. pays less than domestic consumers for current, Senator Norris replied:

"It does not take any very deep study of mathematics to see that the people of Washington are paying more for electricity than they ought to pay because a very large portion of the electricity manufactured is sold to a preferred customer."

He admitted that electricity charges here were lower proportionately than elsewhere in the United States.

MAN HELD FOR JURY IN MT. ALTO MURDER

Veteran Asks Army Trial at Inquest in Death of Institution's Head.

A quick decision to hold Andrew Frank Cassell, 44-year-old war veteran, for grand jury action in the slaying Wednesday of Dr. Victor Almone, medical officer in charge of Mount Alto Hospital, was made by a coroner's jury yesterday.

The studied silence Cassell has maintained since the killing of Almone was broken during the testimony, when he leaped from the witness chair at the inquest and shouted:

"I want a general court-martial. They can't do this. I didn't do anything. Capt. McDowell can get me out."

For a time two policemen were required to quiet and hold Cassell, who continued to shout. A woman ran from the inquest room and Miss Ann Babington, clerk at the hospital, who was testifying, began to weep as she told of the slaying of Dr. Almone.

Testimony of hospital employes and other attaches confirmed what investigating officers have given out with regard to Almone's slaying.

It was testified that Cassell came to the hospital where he had formerly been a patient for a mental disorder and asked for Dr. H. B. Baxley, neuropsychiatrist. Finding the latter absent, it was said, Cassell went into the office of Dr. Almone and fired the fatal shot.

Cassell was known as an expert marksman in the Army, it was learned. He was at one time arrested in Michigan for carrying a concealed weapon, was convicted and paroled from prison because of a tubercular condition. He had been rooming here recently at 4001 Fourteenth street northwest.

CHARGES OF PRIVATE POLICE JOBS PROBED

License Act for Independent Detective Agencies to Ban Alleged Activities.

Charges that many policemen are doing private detective work while off duty in violation of departmental regulations are being investigated by District officials in connection with the drafting of new rules and standards to be applied in the licensing of private detective agencies under the new license law.

At present all such agencies are operating without authority pending the granting of the licenses, but til June 30, they were required to obtain permits and file bonds of $10,000 with the District Commissioners. It was readily admitted, however, by District officials that the old statute was virtually inoperative and that no attempt has been made for several years to prosecute agencies which failed to comply with the law.

Reason for Laxity.

The reason for this laxity was an adverse court decision in a test case. As a consequence, private investigating agencies of all sorts have sprung up and operated without supervision throughout the city. Only the more reputable organizations have bothered to obtain bonds and a permit from the Commissioners.

Walter Parsons, chief of the Parsons National Detective Service, in a letter to Wade Coombs, superintendent of licenses, made the charge that "many members of the local police organization do this same work (private detective) nights and at other times when they are off duty." He said that he is able to furnish the names of these policemen at the proper time.

Unauthorized Agencies.

He further declared that "numerous persons are operating in this business without an office, without credentials of any sort, and so far as my observations go, without experience. Numerous former members of the police force are engaged in this business."

A deputy United States marshal and a hardware salesman, he charged, recently opened an office in the National Press Building. Many agencies advertise their business openly although they have no permits, while the police operate under cover and stay out of court, he said.

District officials believe that they will eliminate all unauthorized agencies under the new license act, which requires a recommendation by the superintendent of police and the payment of $100 fee. The law is believed also to cover collection agencies.

Workers' Losses In Bank Are Told

Printing Office Employes' Need Stressed in Move for Senate Relief.

Employes of the Government Printing Office have been left in a "serious condition" by closing of the North Capitol Savings Bank, Senator Shipstead (Republican), Minnesota, declared in a statement read into the Congressional Record yesterday.

He said he read the statement to facilitate Senate action on his resolution to exempt these workers from economy act provisions abolishing annual leave with pay.

"Twenty-nine out of 32 sick relief and pension associations of the Government Printing Office had all of their funds in this bank," it read. "Practically every Government Printing Office employe with any savings at all had them in this bank."

BUS PUBLIC HEARING HELD BEFORE GRANT

Use of Vehicles on Highway to Mt. Vernon Aired; No Decision Reached.

The right of bus transportation companies to use the Mount Vernon Memorial highway was the subject of hearings held yesterday before Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d. No decision was reached and the hearings will continue tomorrow.

The Washington Public Utilities Commission, through Corporation Counsel William F. Roberts, presented opposition to the use of large vehicles on the new route. Mr. Roberts said, "The commission sees no occasion for granting regular routed service through the District of Columbia to what is generally known as the Mount Vernon Memorial highway route."

Col. Harrison Dodge, superintendent of Mount Vernon, appeared in favor of the bus lines, declaring that the tariff at the historical shrine and persons living in that area are now served inadequately by the present bus line which runs over the Fort Hunt road.

Citizens Enter Appeal.

Numerous residents of the area affected appeared before the commission asking that the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Rapid Transit Co. be allowed to operate the route between Mount Vernon and Alexandria.

Gardner Boothe, attorney for the A. B. & W. Co., the only organization applying for permission to operate a commuter service, said that at the time the old electric company which served the area went out of business the residents were promised adequate transportation facilities when the Memorial highway was opened.

One Trip Each Hour.

Mr. Boothe said the A. B. & W. would offer service with one trip each hour for a 25-cent fare between Mount Vernon and Alexandria and 50 cents between Washington and Mount Vernon.

Representative Howard Smith, of Arlington County, said he saw no reason for any regular scheduled service between Alexandria and Washington, but added he did see a limited need for a line below Alexandria.

It was declared by R. E. Toms, chief of the division of designs of the Bureau of Public Roads, that the Memorial highway had been constructed to handle especially local bus traffic. He said ten special stopping places with shelters had been built at a considerable expense.

A resolution was presented showing the board of directors of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce had gone on record as favoring establishment of a local bus service between Alexandria and Mount Vernon.

Child, 5, Badly Burned While Handling Matches

Five-year-old Grace Chite was severely burned yesterday when matches she was playing with in the bedroom of her home at 72 Randolph place northwest ignited the bed.

The child was rushed to Sibley Hospital, where it was said she had suffered first-degree burns about the back, chest, face and arms. Physicians said she probably would recover.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT never rains but it pours! Just when we accustom ourselves to the thought that the joint personal appearance of Loretta Young and George Brent, beginning today at the Earle, marks the high point of sagacious booking and audience interest, along comes the announcement that next week not two but four screen notables will be simultaneously visible on the local boards.

Beginning a week from today, July 22, according to advices that reached Washington late yesterday afternoon, Loew's Fox Theater will present a stage entertainment known as "Hollywood on Parade," in which the stellar figures are George Sidney, Una Merkel, Lew Cody and Anna May Wong. In addition to this quartet of celebrities, all of whom, by the way, have achieved as substantial successes on the articulate stage as upon the silver sheet, active stage participants in the revue will be Wesley Eddy, master of ceremonies, and Phil Lampkin, musical director and no mean performer on his own account.

George Sidney and Lew Cody both have been seen on local stages, the latter more recently than the former. Of Una Merkel, I wouldn't be so sure and Anna May Wong, although scoring a personal hit in the late Edgar Wallace's "On the Spot" in New York, I think has never appeared personally in the Capital, although she has, of course, been numerously seen upon the celluloids.

Many of us trace our first memories of George Sidney back to those remote days when he was playing the same sort of low Hebrew comedy with Ward and Vokes as David Warfield—not yet "discovered" by David Belasco—was contemporaneously contributing to the famous burlesques of Weber and Fields.

And that, my friends, goes back a few seasons!

Yesterday's greatest drama was not suggested in any local theater. In the minds of those with even the least imagination the greatest dramas in history were conjured by the Bastile Day luncheon served on the gun deck of the U. S. S. Constitution, that noble and historic frigate affectionately known as "Old Ironsides," by the Kiwanis Club of Washington, with Ambassador Claudel of France and Secretary of the Navy Adams present as guests of honor. Here was a happy combination of dramatic elements that will long survive among the pleasant recollections of members of the club and the many guests, among whom your reporter was graciously included by Mr. Edwin F. Hill, president of the Washington Kiwanians and toastmaster of the occasion.

They didn't have chicken salad and ice cream for luncheon back in those thundering days of wooden ships and iron men that the speakers so vividly recalled, you can lay to that!

I am authoritatively advised that one of the coolest spots to be found in the vicinity of Washington is the end of the half-mile pier jutting out into Chesapeake Bay from Seaside Park, over at Chesapeake Beach. Of course, if you do not care to keep cool, you can dance to the hot tunes of Jarboe's Nitehawks or indulge in any of the other land amusements supplied with a profligate hand. But next to the end of the pier you'll find the salt-water pool a good bet.

Tonight from 9:30 to 10 o'clock Kate Smith is singing a mess of songs on the smart terrace of the Hotel Shoreham, where Barnee and his orchestra make pretty melodies for dancing. All of the cover charges collected during Kate's interval of chanteusing will be devoted to purchasing smokes for the boys at Walter Reed and others of the service hospitals.

Today is the last day of Constance Bennett in "What Price Hollywood" at RKO-Keith's, and if you haven't seen it, hurry! It is practically swell entertainment, with both the star and Lowell Sherman giving priceless performances and much more authentic Hollywood than the recent "Hollywood Speaks."

As a concession to the times and the midsummer heat, Harry M. Crandall has drastically reduced admissions to "Le Pantheon de la Guerre" from the original 40, 75 and 99 cents to the flat daytime and evening prices of 35 cents and 55 cents, which probably corroborates any suspicion you may have had that he is a good showman.

Well, one way is not to look at that thermometer down in that pesky kiosk!

Farran, trading as Farran's Express & Storage Co., Fifteenth and H streets northwest, for $7,500 damages. Edwards, through the firm of McCumber, Reynolds, Brand & Redmond, alleged he was struck by a truck of the Farran company at First and C streets southwest, and badly hurt.

BASTILLE DAY FETE HELD ON SHIP HERE

French Ambassador and U. S. Dignitaries Recount Ties Binding Two Nations.

Observing Bastille Day, the Washington Kiwanis Club was host yesterday to the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and other dignitaries at a luncheon on the U. S. Frigate Constitution.

The Marine Band and a regiment of Marines contributed a background of spirited color to the occasion, and the Navy Band Orchestra played throughout the luncheno.

Ambassador Claudel called attention to Nicolas Marteau, a French ancestor of George Washington, one of the early settlers on the James River and the founder of Yorktown. Marteau's granddaughter, Mildred Warner, married Lawrence Washington, whose son, Augustine, was the father of George Washington. The ambassador pointed to this relationship as a further link in the chain of affection between the United States and France.

Secretary Adams declared that it was through the cooperation of the French fleet that the United States was able to gain liberty in the Revolutionary War.

The Rev. Dr. John C. Palmer, principal speaker for the Kiwanis Club, paid tribute to Lafayette and the part he played in helping this country obtain liberty.

A welcome to the club was given by Commander Louis J. Gulliver, U. S. N., of the Constitution; Rear Admiral H. V. Butler, commandant of the Navy Yard, and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy. Edwin F. Hill, president of the club, presided.

Evening Programs at Center.

Recreational programs will be held every evening during July and August at the Banneker Recreation Center, Eighth and Euclid streets northwest. Motion pictures will be shown at 8 p. m. tonight.
